Hoover and Morrow?
A Billion-Dollar Man.
Wall St.'s Old Home Week.
Making the World Small.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE NEW YORK Evening Journal has a story about "Herbert Clark Hoover for president; Dwight Whitney Morrow for vice president on a Republican ticket."

Morrow was Coolidge's classmate in college. That is something.

Morrow ran and was elected in New Jersey as a wet. President Hoover ran as a dry, and will undoubtedly run again as a dry.

A Republican ticket with a "dry head and a wet tail" might worry the Democrats.

HAVING FOR SECRETARY of the Treasury a man who has known how to collect at least ONE BILLION DOLLARS FOR HIMSELF is not a bad idea, and that is the sort of secretary that Uncle Sam has.

When Mr. Mellon talks to the French about co-operating with President Hoover in his plan to avert worldwide collapse, the French will realize that they are talking to a man who knows his subject.

French objection to President Hoover's plans threatens to upset them, for the President demands that all the "important" nations agree to the suggested moratorium. Mr. Mellon perhaps will make the French take the President's view of the situation.

WHATEVER MAY HAPPEN later, Wall street is having a cheerful "Old Home Week" now. Yesterday 900,000 shares of stock were sold in half an hour, and the price of a seat on the Stock Exchange went up $79,000. Stocks were going up. "Big Steel" early in the day climbed above 102 to look around and see who is left alive.

Happy times in Broad street near Wall, but if you gamble you will have yourself to blame.

LONDON STOCKS went up, even after the French had sent their discouraging message about the moratorium, and that rise is a good sign.

The English understand the French better than we do, having treated or fought for them for hundreds of years.

THE AIRPLANE and courage are making the world smaller than it used to be. Post and Gatty, 35 hours after they started from New York to fly around the world, were telling on the radio from Berlin about their crossing. They are "doers of the world," not talkers, and said little. At 5:30 yesterday afternoon, Russian time, they were in Moscow, having made the 950-mile hop from Berlin in less than eight hours. Their next important stop will be Irkutsk, 2,000 miles from Moscow.

FOR THREE HOURS while over the Atlantic, Post "could not see the engine at all and just had to keep eyes glued on the instruments." It seemed strange to the fliers not to have "any idea just where we were." All they knew was the little machine in which they were flying.

And that is the condition of the whole human race. All we know is the earth machine on which we are flying, around the sun in a spiral about 578,000,000 miles every year, and other millions of miles off through space with our sun.

Fortunately we are all as content as a mouse or a microbe would have been in that trans-Atlantic plane. Their instruments freed them from anxiety.

THE POST-GATTY airplane is the thirteenth to cross the Atlantic since the beginning of the world.

Those, not young, will live to see 13 hundred airplanes cross the ocean every day, in ONE DAY, and attracting no attention.

Write that prediction on your cuff.

DISCUSSIONS between the Vatican and the Italian government continue, unsatisfactorily as regards the Vatican. The Pope has told pilgrims from Naples:

"We have very little faith left in men, but we have entire, implicit, complete, joyous faith in God's help, and in prayer. Pray, therefore, for the Pope, and for his intentions, which aim solely at the glory of God, at the good of souls, of the church and of our country."

MUSSOLINI'S government maintains its position that the "Catholic Action" clubs for adults, or the dissolved juvenile Catholic organizations, will never be permitted to resume their activities in Italy, because they are secretly political and against him.

The Italian government goes further, demanding that the Vatican express regret for "grave anti-Italian manifestations by Jugoslavian ecclesiastical authorities."

MUSSOLINI'S government constantly emphasizes the fact that the Vatican is "a foreign nation." It might even be thought that Mussolini had consented to the restoration of temporal power, and papal government of a small area, with the deliberate intention of creating that "foreign government" status.

A NEW RECORD, made in England, will interest tailors especially and manufacturers generally. John Crowther & Sons, of London, took the wool from 12 South Down sheep, made it into cloth, and made the cloth into a suit of clothes, all in 2 hours 9 minutes and 6 seconds. That is a world record.

1 DEAD, LOSS HEAVY IN STORM

Terror Kills Woman; Floods, Debris Paralyze Traffic; Loss Thousands

Pittsburgh today was digging itself out of the worst storm of the year, which left death and thousands of dollars worth of damage in its wake.

Mrs. Bessie Sullivan, 44, of 3939 Clement way, died during the height of the storm from cerebral hemorrhage, which was induced by fright, according to Dr. John Mackrell, 3944 Liberty avenue.

Lightning flashes joined forces with the hail and rain in striking terror in the hearts of many and keeping countless other thousands awake. The heavens were alternately a vivid glare of light and a mass of pitch blackness, while the hail pelted windows of homes like machine gun bullets.

The storm, with a wind velocity of 36 miles an hour, but reaching at times a cyclonic gust of between 50 and 60 miles, broke upon the city at 3:55 a. m., according to the United States Weather Bureau here. Within 15 minutes an inch of rain had covered the entire district. During the remainder of the storm, another half-inch fell, the bureau reports.

Two families narrowly escaped injury when the wind and rain tore away the entire rear of a three-story brick building at 2228 Forbes street, routing eight from the building. All were Negroes. A confectionery store occupies the first floor. As the brick wall crumbled, it tore away part of the brick building at 2230 Forbes street. No one was hurt.

THOUSANDS DELAYED

Thousands of workers were delayed during the early morning rush by street car and automobile tieups, the result of washouts and trees and electric wires that were blown into the streets.

Reports of damage poured into newspaper offices from scores of surrounding communities, indicating that the storm was general.

4 FEARED DEAD IN LAKE STORM

DETROIT, June 26.—(AP.)—Rescue parties were sent out onto Lakes St. Clair and Erie today, following reports that at least four persons had drowned in widely scattered sections during a heavy wind and rain storm which swept the lakes.

Macombe County deputies started a search near Huron Point, east of Mt. Clemens, where several persons who were fishing in Lake St. Clair were reported drowned. Cottagers along the lake reported several overturned boats could be seen from the shore.

Along Lake Erie, a dozen or more boats were blown out into the lake by the heavy wind. A Coast Guard cutter was speeding to Point Aux Peaux, where several persons were reported missing.

Eight men were rescued from the lake by residents near Baycrest, four miles north of Monroe, after their boats had overturned.

Humor and Pathos In Wake of Storm

"The devil rode the air."

That's what Pilot Wolffe told mechanics at Bettis Field where his plane was forced down by the storm which swept Pittsburgh early today. Wolffe was flying from Newark, N. J., to Cleveland when he ran into the storm here at 3:30 a. m.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park's intention of catching up on the sleep he lost Wednesday night, while preparing the indictments against Mayor Charles H. Kline and Former Director Bertram L. Succop, was frustrated by the storm when he was awakened at 4 a. m. today by a bolt of lightning which struck a tree just outside his bedroom window. Park lives on a farm in Duncan avenue, Duncan, Hampton Township. His next door neighbor, Chief County Detective George W. Murran, also was awakened when the wind blew the kitchen roof off his house.

The crews of street cars tied up by the debris had a "Roman holiday." No checks to sell, no transfers to issue, no traffic lights to watch.

BOLT IGNITES BIG OIL TANK

Six thousands barrels of crude oil were set off early today when lightning struck the steel storage tank of the National Transit Company, two miles south of Nixon, seven miles from Butler. The explosion blew the tank's wooden roof 200 feet into the air. Damage was estimated at $25,000 by George Galvish, superintendent of the pumping station.

A second oil tank, containing thousands of gallons of oil, struck 50 yards from the first. It is in danger of exploding, firemen said.

The crash and the flames leaping into the air attracted many of Nixon's inhabitants to the scene.

E. W. Sterling, who lives near the tank, said he heard a "terrible crash and a gushing sound and looked out the window to see the whole place lit up."

The blazing oil spread over three acres of adjoining farm land and for a short time threatened the buildings on the farm of Charles Bickle.

BIG RAIL STOCKS LEAD RALLY

NEW YORK, June 26.—The market went into the home stretch on a rally this afternoon with the big rails and a half dozen of the key industrials leading the move. Foreign stock exchanges boomed late in the day.

The day's movements had been rather uncertain following a strong opening in which Steel splashed into the market with a 3,000-share block at 101½, up 2⅞ from last night's final. It ranged within a point of that figure most of the day after having dipped on some early realizing.

Developments abroad suprred the market forward intermittently. The Stimson note and Secretary Mellon's presence in Paris seemed to assure the success of the administration's debt program. Plans for relieving South American financial stress were also under way.

White House conferences indicated that measures were under discussion looking to a decision on the Farm Board's huge holdings of wheat. It was thought this grain would be withheld from the market. Removal of this overhanging threat is of vital importance to the grain trade's position at this time.

Clergyman's Right To Silence Upheld

ST. PAUL, June 26.—(AP.)—The right of a clergyman to refuse to divulge information given him in confidence was upheld today by the Minnesota State Supreme Court, which reversed the conviction of the Rev. Emil Swenson, Lutheran pastor, found guilty of contempt. He declined to divulge a conversation between a parishioner and the minister concerning a divorce case.

Forgetful Bishop Tardy at Wedding

Disabled Nautilus Reaches Plymouth

PLYMOUTH, England, June 26.—(INS.)—The polar submarine, Nautilus, disabled in mid-ocean, arrived here today from Cork, Ireland, in tow of the tug Morsecock. The submersible proceeded immediately to the Devonport dockyard for repairs.

U. S. YIELDS ON DEBT PLAN

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The French government won its first clash with the United States on the Hoover war debt moratorium proposal today when the administration yielded on its "take it or leave it" manifesto.

Action to this effect became known with announcement by Secretary of State Stimson of the French reply to the Hoover plan. Stimson, asserting that the French note showed "a gratifying cordiality to the President's proposal," announced, however, that compromise efforts would be made in Paris by Secretary Mellon and Ambassador Edge on reservations demanded by France.

MORE PARLEYS.

The suggestions in the French counter-proposal do not accomplish the full measure of relief contemplated by the President and must therefore be the subject of discussions to reconcile the two viewpoints.

The reply of France disclosed what was already well known—

Two Robbers Put Victim to Torture

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(AP.)—J. A. Amlin, machine shop night watchman, learned about medieval torture early today. Two robbers bound him to a lathe in a futile effort to learn the combination of the safe. Then they turned on the current and moved him slowly toward the flashing blades. The ordeal ended when a fellow employe arrived.

Queen Helen Goes Riding; Deny Poison

LONDON, June 26.—(AP.)—Published reports that Queen Helen of Rumania might have taken poison by mistake were discredited today by the secretary of the British Legation in Bucharest. He said over the telephone that she had risen early and taken a horseback ride in the royal gardens.

Vanderbilt, Wife Reported Reconciled

RENO, Nev., June 26.—(INS.)—Despite many rumors to the effect, attorneys for Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and his pretty blue-eyed wife, Mary Weir Logan Vanderbilt, today declined to confirm reports that an amicable settlement of their marital difficulties was near.

BANKS ALSO TO PRODUCE RECORDS

Mayor, Mrs. Kline, Schooley, Waldschmidt, Succop and Swaney Deals to Be Aired

The most startling developments to date in the investigation of city purchasing and city officials came today. Ther were:

District Attorney's subpenas have been issued on leading stockbrokers for records of stock and securities transactions by Mayor Charles H. Kline, Mrs. Kline, City Treas. Roy D. Schooley, City Solicitor C. A. Waldschmidt, Frank Swaney, the Mayor's secretary and ex-Director of Supplies L. B. Succop, who was indicted yesterday with Mayor Kline.

Thirty banks, in similar subpenas, have been instructed to deliver records of transactions by the same six persons to the grand jury by 9:30 Monday morning, when the brokers' reports are due.

Charles A. Hille, former superintendent of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers, and Secretary Swaney appeared before the grand jury.

Solicitor Waldschmidt posted $5,000 bond for Mayor Kline and Succop, pending trial in September on yesterday's indictment on charges of misdemeanor in office.

The grand jury adjourned until 9:30 a. m. Monday.

Kline 'Not Afraid, Records Open and Aboveboard'

The order to the brokers directed that they supply to the grand jury by 9:30 Monday, all records relating to the purchase or sale of securities by the six persons named between January 1, 1927, and June 23, 1931. The bank subpenas include the same dates.

News of this development leaked out only with the service of the subpenas, as the investigators

Pavley, Famous Dancer, Leaps 16 Floors to Death

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP.)—Andreas Pavley, 45, famous classic dancer, plunged to death today from the sixteenth floor of the McCormick Hotel.

Internationally known as a dancer, Pavley had led the ballet of the Chicago Civic Opera Company for several years and formerly was first dancer of the San Carlo Opera. He was also a former associate of Mme. Pavlowa.

Of Dutch parentage, Pavley was born in the Dutch East Indies, a member of a family of military men.

The dancer's body, clad in pajamas, fell to the cement paving in an alley, narrowly missing a hotel clerk. The screen on his window had been smashed by a portable radio set.

John Collins, manager of the hotel, said Pavley had moved into a cheaper room three weeks ago saying he had suffered financial reverses. Police found no notes in his room.

themselves had disclosed no such plan.

Mayor Kline, told of the subpena on the brokers said:

"My records are open and aboveboard. I'm not afraid of anything."

Schooley had no comment on the grand jury's demand for his stock records.

Solicitor Waldschmidt went on Mayor Kline's bond. He said:

"I went on Mayor Kline's bond as a friend, a friend of long standing and not in any official capacity. Mayor Kline was my preceptor in law. I studied law under him 20 years ago and I would be an ingrate not to rally to his support now."

Charles B. Shapiro, a real estate broker, of 5520 Beacon street, was bondsman for Succop.

While Kline has refused to comment upon his indictment, from friends it was learned today he was "very much surprised." They said the Mayor did not think the grand jury would indict him.

Unusual courtesies were extended by Clerk of Court S. P. Topley's office to both Kline and Succop when they appeared at his office to sign the continuous bond docket. The book was taken from Topley's main office, where the general public uses it, to the secluded record room, where free from eyes of curious, the Mayor affixed his signature. To Succop, who appeared several hours later, the same courtesy was extended.

Waldschmidt, slightly nervous, signed on the wrong line—the one designated for the Mayor—and had to erase and write his signature again.

Kline was closeted for more than an hour with Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh and Director James M. Clark, of the Department of Public Safety, upon his arrival at the City-County Building. He later conferred with Solicitor Waldschmidt.

Kline's Secretary Before Jury Second Time

Seven witnesses appeared before the grand jury today when it resumed its investigation following an indictment of Mayor Charles H. Kline and B. L. Succop. These included Charles A. Hillegas, former chief surveyor of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers of the Public Works Department, and Frank L. Swaney, secretary to Mayor Kline.

The others were Rhoda Pruets, Lulu Litchge and Marie Maloney, stenographers in the office of City Treasurer Schooley; Miss Bertha Bennett, assistant secretary and treasurer of the L. H. Parke Company, and A. L. Brahm, of the A. L. Brahm Company, meat dealers.

It was reliably reported that the three girl employes of Schooley were requested to bring their stenographic note books before the jury for inspection, but failed to do so.

Hillegas and Swaney were before the jurors the longest period of any of the witnesses during the short session. Hillegas was asked to bring correspondence between himself and Mayor Kline, which he delivered personally to Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed, a few minutes after the jury adjourned. The correspondence, it was learned, dealt with the years of 1928, 1929 and 1930.

ADJOURN UNTIL MONDAY

This was the second time Swaney was summoned to appear before the grand jury. He was closeted for approximately 10 minutes.

Miss Bennett followed Swaney. Next came Brahm. When Brahm left the jury room adjournment was taken until Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Other developments were:

1—Reports that Mayor Kline and Succop when called for trial probably will ask that indictments brought against them be quashed.

2—An investigation to ascertain if anyone profited illegally by the letting of city contracts and if any city or county employes benefited by such actions.

The grand jury returned three true bills against Kline and Succop yesterday. In one containing 45 counts, both were named and charged with malfeasance in office. Another of three counts charged Kline with misdemeanor while a third of one count was returned against Succop.

RUG AND TRUCKS BIDS

The counts against the Mayor individually were on the purchase without bids and advertising of two rugs and the purchase of three motor trucks from others than the lowest responsible bidder.

Succop was named in connection with the purchase of goods from A. Nathanson and Samuel Adler, of Marcus Company, which it was alleged was an irresponsible bidder to the extent that the city had refused to permit it to bid.

The 45 counts in the joint indictment, as against 22 counts in the presentment, were accounted for by the fact that 24 separate counts were used in the indictment to cover the award of monthly meat bids to the A. L. Brahm Company and two counts to cover the purchase of six trucks from Henry Braun and the alleged advance of $5,000 to him before delivery.

that while the French are willing to forego collection of part of Germany's reparations for one year, they are unwilling that Germany should escape paying the unconditional portion, amounting to some $110,000,000 annually. The note said:

"The French government considers that there is a moral interest of the first order in not postponing in any way the payment of the unconditional annuity, even during the period contemplated by President Hoover."

Mellon's Bon Mot Raises French Hopes of Victory

PARIS, June 26.—(INS.)—A French victory on the questions raised by the proposed moratorium for Germany was forecast here today by the greeting extended by Secretary Mellon to the Assistant Director of the Bank of France when negotiations looking toward a compromise began. Mellon said:

"Monsieur Delcour-Gayet, we are here."

A warning that suspension of unconditional reparations payments from Germany might undermine the validity of the Young plan was sounded by Premier Pierre Laval today in reading to the Chamber of Deputies the French government's official reply to President Hoover's war debt proposal.

He also read the note of Secretary of State Stimson, which was submitted to Foreign Minister Briand at today's luncheon for Secretary Mellon. Many regarded it as lacking in cordiality.

Several members of the Chambers of Deputies, commenting on the American government's acknowledgement of the French note, summed up the French attitude with:

"President Hoover could at least have expressed his thanks for the French note."

PAPER'S SALE HELD UP

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(INS.)—The Washington Post, the capital's oldest newspaper, will not be sold for the present at least.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins, in District Supreme Court, rejected all offers for the purchase of the paper today when attorneys for Edward B. McLean, the publisher, informed him that their client had changed his mind and "did not wish to sell the Post."

A number of offers have been made for the Post since it became known that the newspaper was on the market. The most prominent were made by David Lawrence, publisher of the United States Daily, and by attorneys for William Randolph Hearst.

STABS SISTER FIGHTING GANG

A gang of youths who entered the home of Louis Iovino at 7332 Dennison avenue, Swissvale, and attacked Iovino early today, were being sought by borough police and county detectives.

During the free for all fight that followed, Iovino suffered a broken wrist and his sister, Marie, 16, was accidentally slashed with a knife.

County authorities searching for the invaders, say that they were lead by James Bonnicca, 20, of Fleet street, Rankin, an acquaintance of Marie, who called upon her at her home last night.

According to members of the family, Marie and Bonnicca were sitting on the front porch when an argument ensued. Bonnicca struck the girl they said and her brother went to her rescue.

Bonnicca left the home and returned an hour later, it was said, with 10 of his friends in a truck. Each man, the family said, carried hammers and pipes.

Iovino came from the kitchen with the knife and rushed Bonnicca, it is alleged. Marie got between them and was accidentally stabbed.

CURRAN KILLING BLAMED ON CUSTOMER

Police Adopt That Theory After Interview With Girl, Friend of Victim

Morris Curran, alleged bootleg supply merchant, was murdered by a disgruntled customer, Lieut. Frank Ferris, of the homicide squad, said he believed, after he had interviewed Gladys Ulman today. She is also known as Gladys Tietz, Lieut. Ferris said, and declared she admitted she and Curran had been living together for the last five years.

Miss Ulman was summoned to Central Police Station today for questioning in the hope that she might throw some light on a motive for the killing.

NO THREATS MADE

She said Curran had received no threatening letters, to her knowledge.

Curran was shot down by three men while inspecting his new home being built at 2918 Perrysville avenue Wednesday.

Through Curran's associates Ferris hopes to learn the motive behind the shooting. Three youths, one of whom has been described to police by an automobile dealer from whom he purchased the murder car, were being sought as the killers.

THIRD ATTEMPT ON LIFE

The killing marked the third attempt to "get" Curran, detectives said. His Penn avenue establishment was bombed August 1, 1929, shortly after the Monastero brothers, reputed heads of the bootleg supply business on the North Side, were killed.

The second attempt was made June 7, when shots were fired into Curran's apartment in Perrysville avenue. Curran had been separated from his wife, who resides in Jackson street, for eight years, detectives said.

BOY AND MAN SHOT IN MINE WARFARE

Lad, 15, Wounded Following Stoning of Auto Carrying Vesta Miners to Work

A boy and a man were shot in warfare growing out of the mine strike today.

Repeated stonings of an auto carrying miners to work at Vesta No. 4 mine, subsidiary of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, near California resulted in the fatal shooting of Joseph Vargo, 15, of Philipsburg. He is in Brownsville Hospital.

A second shooting occurred at Clarksville, near Brownsville.

SUSPECT SURRENDERS

Clarence Wilson, 40, cutter, of California, who is said to have shot Vargo, surrendered to state police.

Wilson, according to the story he told police, said that for several mornings his car, in which he and four others rode to work, had been stoned. This morning after his windshield had been shattered and his radiator damaged, he told police he alighted from his car and fired at a crowd which had stoned the machine.

OHIO MINERS TURN BACK

The first of the invading host of striking Ohio miners were striking back to their homes today after they had been ordered out of their bus near Coverdale, as more than 90 per cent of Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation miners were reported to have returned to work. The company is operating under an agreement with the United Mine Workers of America.

State police and Chief Deputy Sheriff B. V. Coffey stopped the invaders and arrested the bus driver, Frank Ferlock, 42, and Walter Miekoski, 36, who, they said, was the leader of the Ohio miners. The two men were brought to the sheriff's office for interrogation, Coffey said, pending the filing of formal charges.

BUS HALTED

There were 36 men in the bus, Coffey said. After they had passed through Coverdale the bus was halted. The occupants were forced to alight and in pairs were told to start back home.

When Miekoski left his seat beside the chauffeur, police said, a loaded .38 caliber automatic pistol was found on the seat.

More than 2,000 miners of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation were reported back at work today.

Eighteen men and two women, defendants before Alderman George Anderson for rioting at Wildwood Monday, were held for court and remanded to jail in default of $5,000 bail each, to wait trial for inciting to riot. The women were Helen Perkovich, 20, and Theresa Priselac, 50, both of Wildwood.

Two men, Nick Nyardy, 44, of Acmetonia, and Nick Lonac, 37, Harmarville, were discharged by Alderman Anderson as not being identified by Deputy Sheriff Walter Smith as having taken part in the riot.

UNION CHIEF'S HOME BOMBED

Two persons were hurled from their beds and the lives of three others were endangered early today when the home of Victor Garzany, secretary of the United Mine Workers of Coverdale, was bombed.

The bombers exchanged shots with Frank Metz, neighbor of Garzany. A shot was fired into a crowd of people sitting on Metz's front porch, but no one was injured, police said.

Garzany and Metz returned to work yesterday at the Coverdale mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation.

Joseph Delina, also of Coverdale, was arrested by state police for questioning in connection with the bombing.

The bomb was set off in the rear of the house just after Mr. and Mrs. George Herby, Jr., and Garzany and his two children, Richard, 5, and Betty, 3, had retired.

Mr. and Mrs. Herby, tenants in the Garzany home, said they were hurled from their bed and then jumped out of their bedroom window when the blast rocked the neighborhood. The porch, steps, and part of the foundation of the home were damaged. Windows were shattered.

Mrs. Elizabeth Garzany, wife of the union secretary, was sitting with Mr. and Mrs. Metz and other neighbors.

She declared:

"When I heard the explosion I said to Mrs. Metz that the bridge had probably been blown up. Threats had been made that the railroad bridge behind our home would be wrecked, and that's what I thought it was."

Coolidge Cites Good Tidings for Business

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 26.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The developments of the past few weeks have been distinctly encouraging to business. A United States court decided that it was not a violation of the anti-trust law for two concerns to consolidate, and the government did not appeal.

Mr. Coolidge

With the exception of some of the northwest the crop conditions are good. Prices are low but the people of the land by working hard are producing at a low cost. The price of raw materials has shown a slight improvement. The effort of the railroads to increase rates has met with remarkably little public opposition. Whatever may be the decision of the commission it is evident the people want fair treatment for the railroads.

Considerable improvement has taken place in the price of securities. It is too soon to estimate the final result of the proposal of President Hoover to assist Germany, but it seems certain some plan of relief will be adopted. The almost universal good temper in which the proposal was received is most reassuring. We have difficult problems and an uncertain future, but many facts indicate more confidence and better conditions at the present time. The main element in the improvement has ben plain hard work.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Divorce Denied Rosenberg, Attorney, Wife Censured

Samuel S. Rosenberg, Pittsburgh attorney, today was refused a divorce from Olive Rosenberg by Judge Frank P. Patterson. The suit was begun nearly a year ago, when Rosenberg charged that his married life was "stormy."

They were married November 29, 1922, and have a 6-year-old daughter.

In refusing to grant the decree, Judge Patterson pointed out that:

"We are of the opinion that both are at fault. It appears that the wife has shown an arrogant, intolerable and inimical disposition toward her husband, and a little consideration on her part might have saved the wreck of their marital life.

"On the other hand, his conduct was such that to some extent he has been responsible for her hostility.

"A husband's whole duty is not done merely by furnishing a luxurious home and ample allowance."

Rosenberg has testified that his wife had abused his clients both at his home and in his office, and had "fits of temper in which she destroyed furniture and acted as a fiend incarnate."

Mrs. Rosenberg denied the allegations.

MAN DESCRIBES RESCUE OF 7 FROM PIT

Braved Gas-Filled Mine to Bring Three to Surface; One Delmont Victim Died

Disclaiming the title of hero, C. J. Smith, 26, of Dorseyville, salesman, who rescued three of seven men and boys from a gas-filled airhole of an abandoned mine in Westmoreland County yesterday, was back at his place of business, 15 Federal street, today, little the worse for his experience. One of the men brought to the surface by Smith died.

Smith was on his way home from New Alexandria when he learned of the group overcome at the bottom of an airhole of the old White Valley mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, near Delmont.

RESCUES THREE

Lowered into the hole by a rope, Smith brought up three. The others were rescued by firemen. He said:

"Quick work enabled me to avoid effects of the gas until my last trip down. I was pretty groggy when I reached the surface, but soon recovered."

Joseph Cappa, 16, made a 15-cent bet with Martin Vanovich, 14, that he could go down the airhole. Cappa entered, and when he failed to return the Vanovich boy went to his aid and was overcome.

SAVE ONE BOY

Amelio and Telio Galluci, brothers, of Delmont, were attracted to the scene and succeeded in bringing the Vanovich boy out before they were overcome.

William King, 28, mine foreman, John Kudray, 34; Tony Carlotta, 35, and Elesio Nota, 26, all living in the vicinity, next went to the rescue and were overcome, although they wore gas masks.

The firemen, from Export and Greensburg, worked to revive the victims, succeeding with all but Amelia Galluci.

Post, Gatty Making Fast World Flight

International News Service.

COPENHAGEN, June 26.—Greeted by countless thousands, Otto Hillig, Liberty (N. Y.) photographer, and Holger Hoiriis, Danish pilot, brought their monoplane Liberty down on the Kastrup Airport here today, ending a trans-Atlantic flight that began at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, early Wednesday.

The adventurous pair, who characterized their flight as that of "a couple of immigrants returning home," arrived at 9:06 a. m. (Pittsburgh time) from Bremen, Germany, where they spent the night. They landed at the German city last evening, utterly exhausted, after wandering lost for hours over the map of Europe.

END FLIGHT AT KREFELD

The flight itself ended at Krefeld, Germany, yesterday afternoon, but anxious to reach Copenhagen in the quickest possible time, the airmen took off again after an hour's rest.

Remaining awake at the controls only with the greatest difficulty, Hoiriis managed to take the plane as far north as Bremen, but found it impossible to continue to Copenhagen without a night's sleep.

HYMIE MARTIN'S PAL SLAIN

CLEVELAND, June 26.—A theory that the murder of Jack (Kibby) Langman, 28, an associate of "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, may have been a sequel to the killing of former Councilman William E. Potter was being investigated by police today.

"Pittsburgh Hymie" is serving a life sentence as one of the men who shot and killed Potter in an East Side apartment house in February. Detective Lieut. Frank W. Story said he had learned that Martin and Langman were connected with the same gang of racketeers.

Langman's body was discovered in Moreland Heights Village early yesterday. He had been "taken for a ride," shot twice in the back of his head, and his body apparently dumped from an automobile into the street. He did not have a chance to use his own gun, a .32-caliber automatic, which was tucked under his belt.

STARR MURDER THEORY UPHELD

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—After his aides had questioned the mother and sister of Star Faithful separately nearly all night District Attorney Elvin Edwards, of Nassau County, announced today his belief that letters submitted to the grand jury by Dr. G. Jameson Carr, of the Cunard liner Franconia, were genuine.

The prosecutor asserted, however, that while the letters seemed to indicate the girl had decided to commit suicide when she wrote them, he was unable to reconcile their tenor with evidences of mistreatment on the body of the girl found in the surf at Long Beach June 8. He said:

"Even though she threatened suicide, the bruises on her body, the missing underwear and coat and the established fact that she was drugged, impel me to the theory of foul play.

"We still are working to establish whether she was murdered or drowned herself, which latter under the circumstances developed is far from credibly established."

Spurned by His Mother, Boy Gets New Home

HAMMOND, Ind., June 26.—(INS.)—The boy his mother didn't want had a new home today, one with humble folks, after spurning an offer to live with more wealthy foster parents.

Howard Timmons, 5, ran away from his mother, Mrs. Iona Marie Timmons, 25, Tuesday, and she refused to take him back.

She said:

"I have no use for him and he has no use for me. My present husband doesn't like the boy around and I'd rather have a meal ticket than a burden."

Today Howard was apparently contented with Mr. and Mrs. J. G Forsythe, who have lost two children and want to adopt him. Mr. Forsythe makes only $20 a week but Howard says "we'll get alon swell."

Although his mother called twice in an expensive car with a Chicago couple that wanted to adopt him, Howard turned thumbs down on the proposition, not neglecting, however, to take an ice cream cone and a quarter, but refusing to enter their auto.

GLOBE TROTTER IN NEWSPAPER AND TALKIES

Famous Reporter to Relate Events Through Metrotone Film and Sun-Telegraph

Through an arrangement just completed, the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has become affiliated with a vast chain of leading newspapers throughout the country in an international tie-up with Hearst Metrotone News in the gathering and dissemination of world news.

Hearst Metrotone News, the pioneer of all newsreels, recently added to its already established system of presenting the news of the world in natural sound, the voice of the Globe Trotter heard daily by millions of persons throughout the country over the radio.

On all subjects that appear in the newsreel, in addition to the natural sound, the voice of the Globe Trotter thrillingly describes important events. These graphic descriptions, heard also on the air, will be printed in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, commencing today, and twice each week thereafter. Simultaneously on the screens of Loew's Penn and other leading motion picture theaters in Pittsburgh and vicinity will appear the announcement, accompanied by the voice of the Globe Trotter, that the stories being pictured are described in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

GREAT PAPERS LINKED

Already the voice of the Globe Trotter is heard daily in some 20 leading cities throughout the country in association with such great newspapers as the New York American, Chicago Herald-Examiner, Washington Herald, Atlanta Georgian-American, Los Angeles Herald, Baltimore News, San Francisco Call Bulletin and many others.

The Globe Trotter was combined with the newspaper and the screen by E. B. Hatrick, general manager of International Newsreel Corporation, producers of Hearst Metrotone News. It was Hatrick who created the newsreel, and it was International Newsreel Corporation and its immediate predecessors under the guidance of Hatrick, that issued the first newsreel.

METROTONE PIONEER

Hearst Metrotone News, under this name and others, was first issued in 1913. Known then as Hearst Selig News Pictorial, it later became the Vitagraph Pictorial, Hearst Pathe News, International Newsreel, M-G-M- News, and finally, with the advent of sound, it became the present Hearst Metrotone News. The first great news event covered in motion pictures were the ceremonies attendant upon the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson as President of the United States on March 4, 1913. Theater goers in New York, where the subject was shown for the first time, gasped as they saw pictures of the event flashed upon the motion picture screen 12 hours after it had occurred.

Since that time, the newsreel has developed into a pictorial display of news events shown in sight and sound within a few hours after they happen.

GLOBE TROTTER

In every country on earth the Globe Trotter is represented. In India, he interviews Mahatma Gandi; in London, by special permission of his majesty, the King, he attends and describes an important round table conference; in Spain, he presented in pictures natural sound and thrilling descriptive narratives, the uprising against the unfortunate and dethroned monarch; in South America, he travels with the heir to the British throne; from China he brings to you the latest news of the rebellion; from Abyssinia the coronation of the King of kings; from the South Seas the dancing of the Hula girls; while from Pittsburgh and other important cities, towns and villages of the United States, the Globe Trotter brings to you, through the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, every important news event of the day as it transpires.

Seek Non-Political Revision of Tariff

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 26.—(AP.)—Revision of present tariffs by a non-political and a non-partisan commission is sought by the Southwest Foreign Trades Conference.

At the closing session of the annual meeting here last night, a resolution was adopted for forwarding to Washington in the hope of bringing about a change in tariff rates for the "vital interests of our import as well as of our export trade."

Woman Spiritualist, 59, Weds Clerk, 28

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(INS.)—Jane B. Coates, 59, a spiritualist and president of the American order of the White Cross Society, was in seclusion today with her 28-year-old husband, Paul Warren Deloe, a Labor Department clerk. They were secretly married yesterday after a romance which followed, the bridegroom said when "spiritualistic forces" caused him to seek Miss Coates' services.

Tunney as Golfer Makes Hole in 12

COLUMBUS, June 26.—(AP.)—Perhaps Gene Tunney would have preferred a return to the ring. He has a brick-red face. He was sunburned playing in a golf tournament of celebrities at Scioto. His score was 89, including 12 on a par-three hole, where he was very busy with a niblick that just would not move a little white ball.

MOSCHZISKER CHOSEN STATE BAR HEAD

Former Chief Justice of Pennsylvania Supreme Court Receives Praise

Von Moschzisker was nominated by Judge Edward J. Fox, Jr., of Easton, who lauded the former chief justice's service record during the 21 years he was on the Supreme Court bench. Fox said that to elect Von Moschzisker would be "to honor both him and ourselves."

The nomination was seconded by William R. Scott, Pittsburgh, and Bernard J. Meyers, Lancaster. Scott said the nominee was o ftremendous value to the judicial system and bar association of the state.

Harold B. Beitler, Philadelphia, was elected secretary, and the Fidelity Philadelphia Trust Company, Philadelphia, treasurer.

Meyers recalled that on election night more than 21 years ago, Boise Penrose was with Von Moschzisker when returns were being reported. Meyers quoted Penrose as saying:

"Don't worry, Bob, you'll be elected, and when your term expires 21 years from now, the people will wish they could vote for you again."

Traffic Tied Up by Storm

minute delay at 8:30 a. m. Outgoing traffic was expected to be held up until 11 o'clock while trucks hauled away dirt that had been washed onto the pavement at the incline, where the last bad slide was in 1920. About five feet of dirt had to be cleaned away.

According to the authorities, more damage was done by water getting under the city streets than in 20 years.

NORTH SIDE FLOODED

Property damage caused by flood amounted to several thousand dollars in the North Side, it was estimated by police, who received scores of telephone calls. The basement of the Bell Telephone building in Montgomery street was flooded with 15 inches of water which rushed in through grating windows when a sewer was unable to carry off the overflow. Damage there was estimated at $1,000.

More than a dozen other houses on the street were flooded, gardens were demolished and trees ruined.

Similar damage was reported at scores of houses in Spring Garden avenue, Evergreen road, East street and East Ohio street.

The storm, accompanied by an extremely high wind, lashed the city for more than an hour and a half shortly before daybreak.

During the storm's height the city fire department answered 17 alarms throughout the city, exclusive of the North Side. None of the fires resulted in serious damage.

Several fire and police boxes were put out of commission by lightning. Telephone and electric circuits in widely scattered sections were interrupted.

WORK FOR JOBLESS

Scores of men were given employment by the Pittsburgh Railways Company in Second avenue, Forbes street and Brady and Fifth avenue and Brady, where mud from three to four feet choked the streets, completely tieing up street car and vehicular traffic. Two automobiles were marooned in mud, more than five feet deep, in Morris street, while police rescued four men, occupants of two others, at Diamond and Boyd streets.

A woman and her new born baby were carried to upper floors when water rushed through the lower floor of their home in Forward avenue. In the 2200 block of Forbes street, the rear of a two-story house toppled into Tustin street. It was unoccupied.

SIGNS BLOWN DOWN

Many electric signs were blown down by the wind. Many windows in the downtown section were shattered by high wind. In the outlaying sections of the city scores of sidewalks were washed out.

Two families living in McCord street and in the rear of Arlington avenue were routed from their homes when water flooded the basement and first floors. Sewers in the district backed up and the streets were filled with two feet of water.

The family of John Kazmik, consisting of his wife and two children at 2700 McCord street, were routed. Five feet of water filled their kitchen, bedroom and living room on the first floor.

The family of Stanley Pieybylik, in the rear of 2700 Arlington avenue, were chased from their first floor apartment when it was flooded. Both families spent the remainder of the night with neighbors.

PLANT FLOODED

Two feet of water flooded the basement of the National Mattress Company, Madison avenue and Vista street, North Side, causing damage estimated at $1,000 to stock.

A residence under construction in the 400 block of Bigelow street, Squirrel Hill, was blown over by the wind. The same dwelling toppled over during the storm last Saturday and had been repaired during the week.

An oil well was struck by lightning in McKnight road, near Laurel Gardens.

A three-story brick apartment at Hillsdale and Dell avenues, Dormont, was damaged slightly when lightning struck electric light wires leading to the building. The home of R. H. Riggles, of 1344 Illinois avenue, Dormont, was undermined by water and a part of the foundation swept away.

In McKees Rocks a parked automobile in Linden street was lifted by the wind and hurled to the opposite side of the street.

TRACKS COVERED

Mud and water covered two of the passenger tracks at Twenty-eighth street, the Pennsylvania Railroad reported. Trains were routed over the yard tracks with slight delays. At Thirty-third street part of the retaining wall was washed out, but there was no blockade. On the Conemaugh division, at Forty-third street, a washout about 15 feet long under two freight tracks was reported, but this, it was said, did not interfere with passenger service.

Tracks in the Fourth avenue tunnel on the Panhandle division were covered with water. Signal trouble at Conway, the Pennsylvania Railroad said, caused some delays in traffic movement there.

Lightning struck the Catholic Boys' High School at Fifth avenue, near Craig street, tearing away a small section of drain pipe. Wind uprooted a tree on the lawn of the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind.

The Liberty Tubes were blocked by debris washed down the Mt. Washington roadway at the north entrance, and by mud and water on the south.

Approximately 100 cars were tied up in a jam caused when dirt and stones poured down the hillside and across the tracks at the Carson street side of the Smithfield street tunnel. Debris more than a foot deep covered the street.

Two foot bridges were washed away in the 800 and 900 block of Becks Run road.

TREES FELLED

An umbrella tree at the home of Davis Caughey, Morningside avenue, was split in two by lightning. A tree at 49 South Euclid avenue, Bellevue, was felled by the wind. A poplar tree blown over by the wind damaged the garage of W. J. Thomas, at 436 South Aiken avenue.

Bigelow boulevard was like a muddy country road this morning. Tons of dirt washed from the hillsides necessitated single lanes of traffic in both directions. Motorists skidded in to work. A fleet of Department of Public Works trucks was put to work at daylight clearing the debris. At Seventh avenue water forced its way under the paving, heaving it up as much as six inches in places.

In the Penn and Dallas avenue districts, a half dozen trees were blown over. Two locust trees at the residence of Mrs. Richard E. Clifford, at 745 Bryn Mawr road, were struck by lightning. Juliet and Cato streets were blocked when a tree was felled by a bolt. A large tree in the yard of Mrs. J. F. Kennedy, at 5235 Duncan street, Lawrenceville, was struck and toppled against the house.

WINDOWS SMASHED

Trees were uprooted at 1700 Cliff and in Mahon streets. Windows in the home of Mrs. Myrtle Maxwell, at 7043 Kedron street, East End, were broken when a tree fell against the side of the house and blocked the kitchen door.

Trees were blown down, streets and houses were flooded, according to reports from Avalon, Bellevue and other communities of the North Boroughs. Traffic was slowed by debris covered streets in many sections.

An automobile coupe was undamaged when a large tree was blown upon it during the storm at Home and Butler streets.

ORCHARD WRECKED

An apple and peach orchard on the farm of Charles Grall, Millvale, was laid to the ground by the wind. Damage of several thousand dollars resulted, it was reported at the Sharpsburg Fire Department.

At 9:30 today it required from 25 to 30 minutes for street cars to traverse the Mt. Washington tunnel.

According to C. S. Krouse, of the Bell Telephone Company, 800 telephones were out of commission in Pittsburgh and approximately 1,600 throughout the county.

Damage to telephone and electric light systems was slight, considering the magnitude of the storm, officials said. There were scattered interruptions in the territory served by the Duquesne Light Company. The worst damage was done at the North substation, near Bakerstown.

Police stood guard over high eral. Police stood guard over high tension wires felled by lightning in Homestead, Swissvale, Munhall, Turtle Creek, Sharpsburg and West View.

Trees were struck by lightning, blocking traffic in borough streets.

The river road from the South Side to West Homestead was blocked in more than a score of places by high water and trees blown across the road.

Twenty trees and an electric wire were blown down along Lanthrop street, above Fifth avenue, in the storm last night, it was reported.

Half of a chimney and part of a roof of a new house at 33 Hazel drive, Mt. Lebanon, owned by R. K. Boyer, was damaged last night when it was struck by lightning, according to neighbors.

PINCHOT VETO TIES UP DEBTS

Veto by Gov. Pinchot of a Senate bill which was to provide the city's assumption of liability for debts contracted by the former borough of Overbrook, means a loss for contractors, City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt said today.

Introduced by Senator James J. Coyne, the bill stipulated that the city pay all debts contracted by Overbrook over its 2 per cent assessed valuation. Waldschmidt explained. The Governor vetoed the measure yesterday.

Waldschmidt said:

"This simply means that the contractors and others who did work for Overbrook shortly before the annexation are left 'holding the bag.' We can't do anything about it."

RESCUE BALKED, GIRL DROWNS

The body of Catherine Dudek, 13, of 70 Ohio street, Stowe Township, drowned in the Ohio River near her home, was recovered last night by Edward Digman, of 44 Orchard street, and Emerson Foreman, 15 McCoy road. Their efforts to revive her were unsuccessful.

Digman, according to a report to the morgue, dived into the river and brought the girl to the surface after she had ventured beyond her depth while bathing with other children, but the shoulder strap of her suit, which he grasped, broke, and the child again sank.

LIBRARY WATER HEARING HELD

A hearing was conducted here by Commissioner Samuel Walker, of the Public Service Commission, yesterday on the complaints of residents of Snowden Township against the South Pittsburgh Water Company, alleging that the company has refused to extend service to the village of Library, except at a cost of $60,000 to the township for installation of mains in that section outside the chartered district. The complainants are A. Kramer, township commissioner; Justice of the Peace Edward Burke, and Jacob Dolence.

The company, in its answer, stated it had offered to make the installation under a contract by which the township would deposit $60,000, the company agreeing to reimburse the township by paying each year 50 per cent of the earnings from the service. It denied making refusal unless the township paid $60,000.

It was testified at the hearing that many residents of the Library district lost their own water supply when mining operations caused their wells to go dry.

People I've Met

PETER ARNO Master of satirical art and a great genius in his profession. I have written about him before. So have many others. I will continue to write about him as long as I have a column. So will many others. Because there is no man in America today whose efforts have a better chance of being recognized and acclaimed by posterity.

Arno made the front pages of the nation a week or so ago when he had that fantastic run-in with young Vanderbilt in Reno, Nev. I don't know the inside of that mess, but the printed stories about the threat with the empty gun and the accusation that "the villain stole my wife" all seem pretty silly to me.

All that, however, is beside the point. The fact remains that as long as he lives Peter will be kidded about his Reno episode. And the sad part of it all is that Peter Arno has no business in Reno in the first place.

Mrs. Peter Arno, the former Lois Long, is just as swell a girl as Arno is a man. If the lives of these two young people wouldn't make one of the finest novels of any season, I'm crazy. Because while the setting is ultra-modern the theme is the oldest and the most successful of all tragedies.

Most of you already know Arno's short history. Son of a Supreme Court justice, his family name is one of the finest in the United States. A Yale graduate, he formed his own orchestra and played in a night club or two.

You may rest assured that Arno's father did not approve of his son's choice of a career. The learned jurist couldn't see much of a future in night clubs.

When the New Yorker, one of the most successful of all the nation's magazines, was started, Arno sent them some cartoons for inspection. Somebody recognized his genius. His work, now stolen right and left by 10,000 imitators, was absolutely unique. So Arno left the musical field and began to devote himself to satirical art.

Although it is not generally known, the New Yorker was a terrible bust the first few months. Things grew so bad, in fact, that the backer decided to give up the costly venture and save what money he could. The editor begged him to wait two more weeks. Arno joined in the plea. The backer agreed. And the very next issue the tide turned. Both Arno and the New Yorker rode on to great success.

Meanwhile, Peter became the husband of Lois Long, a charming girl and a brilliant writer. They formed that much-discussed but seldom seen combination, the ideal couple. They seemed to be ideally mated. As a matter of fact, they still are. The only trouble is that neither of them knows it.

After the arrival of the baby, things began to happen. The artist felt, as all men feel at one time or another, that he was entitled to a little freedom every now and then. And his wife was hit by the reaction.

Soon they had reached the point where an understanding was necessary. It was decided that the husband could do as he pleased and that the wife could do the same. It was one of those modern arrangements that are considered very swanky and sophisticated. The only trouble with such arrangements is that they never quite come off.

Strange how two such sensible people could kid themselves into believing that they were happy under such conditions.

"I'm very happy the way things are now," Peter would say. "Everything is swell."

"This is just the way it should be," Lois would say. "It's the ideal state for a married couple."

Yet, when Lois would see Peter with another woman, her reaction was only too obvious. And when Peter would step to a phone at two in the morning and not find his wife at home as yet, his jealousy and worry were pitiful to behold.

Step by step, the once-perfect romance dragged on toward a conclusion. It was agreed that they would be divorced as speedily as possible. And Arno finally stepped on a train a few weeks ago and hastened to Reno where he could obtain his divorce in short order. Then came the Vanderbilt episode and the front pages.

Thus you have the situation. Two humans, each still madly in love with the other, must be parted because they have both bent their knees to the modern god of sophistication. Both of them are brilliant and crave each other. Yet, because of friends and foolish fancies, they cannot enjoy the simple happiness that comes to the pushcart peddler and his struggling wife.

It must be marvelous to be smart and sophisticated. But it must be tough when your heart is heavy and there's nothing around to comfort you but an epigram . . .

Mother's Pleas Fail, Son Is Hanged

MONTREAL, Quebec, June 26.—(INS.)—Thomas McHugh, of Philadelphia, was hanged at 8 o'clock this morning at the Montreal jail for the murder of A. G. Reid, taxi cashier, on January 26. Efforts to save her son, who also was wanted in Philadelphia for the murder of a banker, were made throughout the night by McHugh's mother. She failed, however, to obtain a reprieve for him.

Styer Appointed U. S. Engineer Here

GLASS BREAKING WARNING GIVEN

Speaking on the practice of persons breaking milk bottles on public highways, Paul C. Wolff, secretary of the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh, last night said:

"There is a city ordinance and a state law which cover leaving broken glass, or anything similar, that may cut tires on the streets. A person who breaks a bottle on the street is obliged to pick up the broken glass, for it is a menace to children and other pedestrians as well as to motorists."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

It is necessary to remove powder and rouge from the face at night not because they are harmful, but because make-up collects atmospheric dust during the day. Dirt is harmful to the complexion. It is destructive to its texture and delicacy as it is destructive to fine fabrics. The proper cleansing process is to use cold cream, then to give the face a scrubbing with bland soap and warm water, then to apply a heavy cream, which acts as a builder of tissues.

When finger nails break easily, apply olive oil at night, covering each thumb and finger end with a thimble made of absorbent cotton, tied on with a thread. Or, slip the hands in old, loose, white cotton gloves. Beware of strong soaps and cleaning powders; they are hard on pink little shells that protect finger ends and decorate them so prettily.

Exercise to tone and strengthen the muscles and tissues of a fiddle string neck; stand erect, spine tall, chest up, hands on hips. Turn the head from side to side with a muscular pull that you can feel in your chest. Send the head forward slightly, then back as far as it will go. Finish with half a dozen deep breaths.

* * *

Be kind to your eyes. No way of getting new ones. If vision blurs, seek the eye specialist. Never read on a moving train or in a dim light. Don't sew on black materials in the evening. Now and then during the day rest the eyes by distant vision. Look out the window to some far away point. Bathing with hot water, then with cold, will rest your lanterns.

A Wedding Ring for the Husband

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would it be proper for me to buy my husband a wedding ring now, after being married 10 months? He did not think he wanted one at the time we were married, but now would like to wear one very much. I hesitated in buying it, as I am not sure it would be the proper thing to do. Would another ceremony be necessary?

BETTY.

By all means buy your husband a wedding ring, if he has expressed the wish to have one. I think that it is a very charming tribute to you that he has changed his mind about wearing a wedding ring. No, there need be no other ceremony.

Be sure to talk over with him just the kind he wants; the rather narrow band of gold is the usual kind for a man. You might ask the jeweler to bring several to your home for your husband to choose one that he wishes. And congratulations to you!

A Definite Rule

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Should I give a wedding present to the man with whom I went out three or four times? I had known him about a year before I went out with him, but only to speak to. I don't know the girl he is to marry at all?

2. If I send the gift, should I send it before the wedding and to whom should it be addressed—to the man or the girl?

MAY.

1. There is no reason for sending a gift under these circumstances, and I suggest that you do not send one.

2. If you do send one, the gift should be sent about two weeks before the wedding, and it should be addressed to the bride-to-be—even though you do not know her. This is a definite rule about wedding presents.

For Evening Wear

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to attend my sorority dance soon, and I am going to wear a peach evening frock with white kid pumps. Will you kindly let me know whether white kid pumps will be all right for evening wear?

GERTRUDE.

White kid pumps are not, to my taste, especially attractive for evening wear and especially with such a pastel and delicate shade as peach. They have, I think, a rather hard, uncompromising look for evening wear and, with a peach evening dress, would not make a particularly pleasing harmony. Apparently you have a bit of the same feeling if you question the attractiveness of their wear for evening. Why not have a plain pump dyed to match the shade of your dress? That would be much more satisfactory and you would acquire a unit. You know, don't you, that if you buy a pair of white satin slippers they can be dyed usually in 24 hours?

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Preventive Medicines Increase Span of Life

In the past quarter of a century, great advances have been made in medicine. New germs, new diseases, as well as new methods of treating old diseases have been discovered.

Dr. Copeland

One of the most important of recent advances is the development of a branch of medicine known as "preventive medicine." This has decreased the number of deaths per year and greatly increased the average span of life.

Notable among these advances is immunization against disease. The word "immunization" is applied to inoculation, or vaccination, of the body, for the prevention of specific diseases.

Smallpox has been all but eradicated. Cases of this one-time dreaded infection are now seldom heard of in civilized countries. This marked change can only be attributed to universal vaccination.

All children should be vaccinated against smallpox before they are one year old. The United States Public Health Service advises that before entering school the child should be vaccinated again.

Another dreaded disease now controlled by immunization is diphtheria. This dread visitation is entirely preventable.

Most persons are confused in distinguishing between toxins and anti-toxins. An individual with diphtheria may be greatly aided by the administration of diphtheria anti-toxin. In fact, this method has greatly decreased the death rate among diphtheria patients. However, diphtheria anti-toxin will not prevent diphtheria.

Active immunity or protection against diphtheria is obtained by the use of diphtheria "toxin-anti-toxin." By means of a special test called the "Schick Test," it is possible to determine whether an individual is susceptible to diphtheria. If he is he should receive the toxin-anti-toxin and be protected against this disease.

By a similar method of application typhoid fever can be prevented. This disease is now never found in the Army or Navy. All men entering the service of Uncle Sam receive vaccine protection. It should be used by everybody likely to be exposed to typhoid.

Other diseases formerly feared are now well within the limits of prevention. The future of medicine lies in prevention rather than cure.

BLEDSOE STORY ATTACKED ON STAND

Jury Expected to Get Case Against Former Fayette County Detective Today

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 26.—The commonwealth attacked R. E. Bledsoe's story today in closing the former county detective's trial for murder of Elmer Younkin. A half dozen witnesses took the stand to contradict the former officer's testimony. Judge S. John Morrow directed that the addresses to the jury start at 1:30 o'clock. The case may go to the jury late today.

Train records of the Western Maryland were introduced to show there was no freight passing the overhead crossing at the time the Uniontown Express on the Pennsylvania struck Bledsoe's car and killed Younkin. Bledsoe testified that just as the Pennay struck his automobile he heard a Western Maryland freight passing on the overhead crossing.

Bledsoe made a general denial yesterday of any plot against Younkin's life. He said he left the machine parked a safe distance away from the Wheeler crossing at 6:30 on the evening of Younkin's death, three-quarters of an hour before the young man was killed when a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train struck the car.

Liberal Return a Hearst Principle

On Tuesday evening, June 2, Mr. Hearst spoke to millions over the Columbia Broadcasting network, at which time he explained in no uncertain terms his stand on the principle of fair distribution of profits. Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., is based on this broad principle and follows closely the fundamental ideals of Mr. Hearst. Investors in this organization receive 7% dividends and in addition are given the right to participate with the common stock in an additional dividend, as declared, up to an extra 3%.

The recent drop in interest rates will make it necessary for many people, during this reinvestment period, to select securities with a more liberal yield, so that incomes will not be reduced.

In the face of the general condition of many securities today, it is a mighty fine indication to note that Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., for the first three months of 1931 showed net earnings of $1.44 per share against dividend requirements on Class A shares of $.43¾. During the past five years the Hearst Consolidated group earned 3.01 times the dividend on the present offering of Class A shares. Such earnings make it both possible and practical to pay 7%, with a wide margin of safety to the investor.

1st Lake Trip Made By Veteran Skipper

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP.)—In his 50 years at sea, Capt. Alfred B. Scott, veteran chief navigator of the Mauretania, has sailed on all the oceans. But not until yesterday did the seafarer ship on the Great Lakes. The white-haired navigator commanded, upon invitation, the steamer Theodore Roosevelt on a return trip to Michigan City.

MEETING SET BY EX-SCHOOL VISITORS

Members to Discuss Plans For Organizate to Work As Individuals Tuesday

Former members of boards of school visitors in 31 of Pittsburgh's wards will meet in the Chamber of Commerce, Chamber of Comemrce Building, at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in an effort to organize an association to perform their old duties in the capacity of private citizens.

The meeting will be an effort to set up the necessary machinery to function as soon as school starts in the fall, according to Mrs. Ethel C. Mueller, former secretary of the Twenty-seventh Ward Visitors' Board, who has called the meeting.

Mrs. Mueller advanced her plan Tuesday evening, shortly after discovery of a clause in the Mansfield omnibus bill amending the state school code, which disbanded the boards.

The former boards of school visitors were composed of seven elected citizens, in each ward.

They were also authorized to recommend persons for positions as janitors when a vacancy occurred in a school in their district. The boards with the exception of the secretaries, served without pay; the secretaries received $25 monthly.

TRADER HORN'S LIFE OF MANY THRILLS ENDS

Famed Adventurer of Jungle And Literature Dies in England as 'Youth of 82'

WHITSTABLE, Kent, England, June 26.—(AP.)—Alfred Aloysius Smith, known to the world as "Trader Horn," died today at a nursing home in Tankerton after a brief illness. He was a "young man of 82," in his own words.

He was stricken with a chill at the home of his sister several days ago and did not rally. With a sparkling eye and a great white beard, he maintained until his death the happy, breezy manner that had accompanied a career of adventure.

"Trader Horn" came out of the jungles of the dark continent to take a place in the spotlight of the world's literary capitals. In collaboration with Mrs. Ethelreda Lewis, he wrote "Trader Horn" and entertained England and America with tales of his experiences with African natives.

EXPLOITS NUMEROUS

His travels began in 1871, when he left Lancashire for the ivory coast of West Africa on behalf of a Liverpool steamship company. After assisting the company's agent to promote the ivory and rubber trade, he developed into the almost mythical personage of "Trader Horn" with a dozen sidelines.

Among his activities were shooting elephants and lions, prospecting in the Kalahari Desert of South Africa, diamond trading in Rand, washing gold at Cherry Creek, painting pictures in the southern part of the United States, and helping to salvage bullion from the wrecked steamship Empress of India.

FAVORITE OF QUEEN

At one time he was a favorite of the Queen of Madagascar and was outlawed by the French government for fighting in her behalf. He served in an irregular unit in the Boer war and fought a caravan of raiders in the Lake Chad region. He had narrow escapes from death. Once he was carried in the teeth of a wounded lion and again he was nearly slain by blacks in a quarrel over ivory.

He came to England at the outbreak of the World War and tried unsuccessfully to enter the British army, declaring he was 20 years younger than his age. He was reported to have served aboard a mine sweeper in spite of his rejection.

EINSTEIN URGES MOONEY FREED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 26.—(AP.)—Albert Einstein, noted German scientist, has sent Gov. James Rolph a letter appealing for an "absolute pardon" for Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings, convicted as perpetrators of the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing.

The letter was sent from Potsdam, Germany. It read:

"I myself am of the decided opinion that a miscarriage of justice undoubtedly appears in the present case.

"Unalterably, therefore, I am sure that you, Mr. Governor, would perform a high service of real justice if you bestow upon both of these men absolute pardon after a sad fate of 15 years of grief."

Einstein and the Governor met recently in Pasadena, while Einstein was visiting and studying in California.

JILTED WOMAN WINS $150,000

LANSING, Mich., June 26.—(AP.)—The Michigan State Supreme Court yesterday ruled that John H. Castle, Detroit real estate man, must pay $150,000 to Bertha B. Cleavenger, also of Detroit, for breach of promise.

In 1929 a jury awarded Miss Cleavenger $450,000 in her suit against Castle, charging that he proposed to marry her, and that she loaned him money to open a real estate business which brought him wealth. Later Castle married another and Miss Cleavenger brought suit. The judgment was reduced to $150,000 by Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson.

Castle asked a new trial, was denied, and then appealed to the Supreme Court.

MAGEE URGES COUNTY FUNDS FOR CANAL

Future of City Dependent Upon Ohio-Erie Waterway, Former Mayor Declares

William A. Magee, former mayor of Pittsburgh and former member of the Pennsylvania Canal Board, declared that the future of Pittsburgh is dependent upon the construction of a waterway between the Ohio River and Lake Erie, in an address at a meeting of the Beacon Club last night.

Such a project, he pointed out, would endow the tri-state area with industrial supremacy of the United States.

LOCAL BENEFIT

Declaring that the benefits of the project would be almost entirely local, and consequently that the funds necessary for it should come from local sources, he said:

"I propose that Allegheny County loan its corporate credit toward this project. I suggest that we make an offer to Youngstown, Wheeling and the other industrial centers which would be benefited by the undertaking, to join with us in financing the major part of the cost of construction, each place voting bonds in proportion to the benefits derivable by it as a community.

FINANCE PLAN

"The bond borrowing power of Allegheny County, according to the last debt statement, was $102,000,000. It could well afford to vote $50,000,000 or more to the enterprise. With present low prices, the construction cost would be somewhere between the 1915 estimate of $65,000,000 and the 1924 estimate of $101,000,000.

"The great difference existing between the present railroad rate and the cost of water transportation would permit a toll of 25 cents per ton upon the traffic that would be amply sufficient to make the canal self-supporting. If the venture should be a total and irretrievable loss, the tax burden would average less than two mills per year for a total of 30 years, the life of the bonds.

COST REDUCTION

"To hold our own, we must reduce the costs of production. At this moment the coal industry, both capital and labor, is in despair. A canal movement based upon sound principals of a practical nature would inspire hope and perhaps help allay some of the bitterness of the wage struggle going on.

"Great public work economically sound are now recognized as one of the means of stabilization during depression. I suggest to the officials of the county that they review and revise their bond-spending policy. The community credit should not be frittered away piece-meal on local improvements in the presence of this opportunity for erecting a defense against business stagnation and decay."

The address was made in view of the proposed general increase of railroad freight rates, an application for which is now before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Gang Bullets Riddle Autos in Back Bay

BOSTON, June 26.—(INS.)—What were believed to be gangster bullets from machine guns early today raked along Trinity place, Back Bay, riddling two parked automobiles and crashing into the wall of University Club, near the entrance. No one in the district heard the shots, police said. An automobile, believed operated by gangsters, was reported in the vinicity about the time the shooting is thought to have occurred.

Cigaret Starts Gas Well Blazing

ELMIRA, N. Y., June 26.—(AP.)—The first gas well since rigs began to dot the south and central part of New York state, burned for an hour yesterday before chemicals extinguished it. The well was the Fred Smith No. 2, at Wayne, which had not yet been capped. A worker lit a cigaret and instantly the flames shot skyward. The run was destroyed.

DESERTS COMEDY -:- Youthful Star Scheduled For Dramatic Role -:- THEATER NEWS -:- Talk Films Open Today; Amusement Notes

Robert Montgomery to Play Star Part in Picture, 'Family Affair'

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.

Switching from the comedy roles that have marked his last few films, Robert Montgomery is scheduled for a dramatic part in "Family Affair," his next starring vehicle.

The decision of the story is particularly satisfying to Montgomery, who welcomes the chance to "chew some scenery," as he puts it. And if the story remains as it was outlined he will have a stronge role climaxed by him dying in the last reel.

Whether the unhappy ending until you hear them fighting will be changed is not known but They always fight, you know and Bob is all for it, contending that his house is the next one." . . . It is something entirely different for him

R. Montgomery

The newly made star is not becoming "Arty or inferring that M. G. M. has not done right by him. It is only that he does not want to become typed" in the light roles that have fallen his way lately.

"Family Affair" is a story of the love and antagonism between two brothers. It is being prepared for the screen by Fred Butler and Sylvia Thalberg.

Another feature that appeals to Montgomery is that it will not be necessary for him to shave nor wear make-up throughout the film. This will probably irk the feminine contingency who constitute the star's fans.

LATEST GOSSIP

While executives and writers were searching for stories or an idea for Pola Negri's first talkie, Thilde Forster, an unobtrusive German girl and a novice to the picture game, submitted the one that has been selected. Miss Forster arrived in Hollywood three weeks ago ostensibly for a vacation. When she read that they were looking for a Negri story she sat down and wrote one which she titled "A Woman Commands." Apparently she has forgotten the vacation, as she completed another which Paramount is seriously considering for Marlene Dietrich. . . . There was a giggle in the directions to a Malibu house that I overheard the other day. "You know where Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so live, don't you?" asked the person describing the route to be taken. The answer being negative she continued, "Well, walk down the beach

Pola Negri.

Speaking of Malibu, Edna Murphy brought home a yellowtail 37 inches long for a record catch among the women. . . . Ivan Lebedeff kissed the last hand in his first starring production Saturday.

LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD

The chance of a lifetime has come to Robert Young. He has been given his first major assignment in a motion picture to play the male lead in "Boarding School." His playing of a small part in "Lullaby" won him the role.

Young, although born in Seattle, is more or less a local boy, as he attended high school here and is a product of the Pasadena Community Players.

He is to play opposite Madge Evans who has one of the three important girl roles in the film. Anita Page and Dorothy Jordan play the other two parts.

COUPLE SEPARATE

Another Hollywood marriage has gone on the rocks.

Finding it impossible to go on diminutive Dorothy Lee and her husband, James Fidler, publicity agent, have decided to call it quits.

Following a long courtship they were married November 7, last, and parted a few days ago. Fidler has moved into a bachelor apartment and Miss Lee is remaining at the home in Toluca Lake.

Academy Will Present Stage Show, Film

"Artist Models," heralded as a drama concerning married life, will open tomorrow on the stage in the Academy. In addition, a film, featuring Ann Pennington and Marie Prevost, will be offered.

Urges Dismissal Of P.R.R. Complaints

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP).—Dismissal of complaints against track storage charges of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the Pittsburgh yards was recommended today to the Interstate Commerce Commission by an examiner. The examiner's proposed report said a carrier is authorized to charge rentals on cars used as warehouses on sidings in order to effect prompt release of the cars. The complaint was brought by H. Americus & Co., Albert M. Travis Company and Knaebel Produce Company, wholesale produce dealers of Pittsburgh.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Hal LeRoy, a happy youth whose loose-footed eccentric dancing in the "Follies" is one of the specialties that "stop the show," never heard of "Doc" Quigley. He told me so himself. Perhaps you never heard of "Doc" either. No matter—some who remember their minstrels knew him well—as a dancer, of course. They remember him as an eccentric hoofer who always stopped the shows of his day, just as a later dancer, Jack Donahue, stopped them with his stepping. Eccentric dancing isn't new. "Doc" Quigley, one of the masters of the art, wasn't the first, and Hal LeRoy probably will not be the last. Necessarily, there will appear to be similarity in the work of all such performers. So a lot of people say that Hal LeRoy dances "like Jack Donahue." That is complimentary, if you look at it properly, but unfair if intended to convey the idea that Hal is an imitator of the late comedian. Hal does his own dance in his own way, and it would be just as fair to say that he is an imitator of "Doc" Quigley, who quit dancing before Hal was born—he is under 20. The fact of the matter is that Hal is a real dancer who has able feet, a personality that stamps him as a promising juvenile comedian, and an unspoiled boyishness that is quite delightful. He merits the applause he gets—for he dances like "Doc" Quigley did. That's a high compliment if you look at it the right way.

Small Timer says that he agrees with health experts who say there is nothing better for the appetite than walking, and that for his he always takes a walk directly to a restaurant.

Pittsburgh is unlikely to get a glimpse of the new "Miss Universe," "Miss United States" and "Miss Memphis," who came here to join the Ziegfeld "Follies." Girls in the "Follies" now have to be an essential part of the show rather than mere specimens of beauty, and there must appear to be a logical reason for their presence on the stage. For the new beauties that has not been worked up as yet, and when it has been, rehearsal will be needed.

Small Timer says that he naturally enjoys seeing a full house and that his liking in that respect extends to card games—if it is his own hand.

Gag

A few theatrical seasons ago Phil Baker, the Accordion Man, backed a flop called "Cafe de Danse." Reuben Mamoulian staged it. The cast included a boy who also played an accordion.

When Mamoulian became suddenly ill and left the theater Mr. Baker told the cast that he would direct things.

Mamoulian heard about the interference and dashed back to the theater and collected the cast.

"And furthermore," he thundered, "I want you all to know that no accordion player will show me how to stage a show."

"Do you mean me?" asked the boy accordion player.

On the Other Hand

Two East Side peddlers were looking at a newspaper photo of President Hoover. The background was the White House lawn and Mr. Hoover was wearing a blue coat and white trousers.

"Well," said one, "there's the man who says things ain't so bad."

"Yeh, yeh," was the retort, "and he ain't even got a suit to match!"

Proof

John Irving Fisher reports that the depression must be over, for he just finished playing at the Royal Theater and the boys in the gallery have stopped throwing pennies.

Depression News

From Nat Burns, of Burns & Allen of the Big Time: Things are so tough that the sea gulls are following Harry Lauder . . . Miss Allen is doing her dumbbell character off stage, too. I asked her what President freed the slaves, and she replied: "Lincoln!" . . . Boy, is she dumb!!! . . . Understand Carnera will not be able to fight for months as he was hit in the nose by a Zeppelin.

Merciless Truth

So many clowns landed powerfully with so many quips at the Friars' Frolic we can't recall the name of the wag who groaned about his luck at the racetracks.

"All I know," he said, "is that every time I pick a horse, either Fator or Sande is the jockey. But when the race starts Sophie Tucker is riding!"

Novelette

Among other tales they tell you is the one about the wealthy manufacturer of a Southern town who believes that "the man in overalls" should get $1 a day. He is known to underpay his great corps of workers.

Last year, they say, he ordered a mansion built in the town. Rooms for 50 guests and numerous other luxuries. The house was finished a few months ago, and just as he was about to move in he received an anonymous note saying that if he entered the place it would be bombed.

So since then, he has lived in the garage of his vast estate carefully guarded by a costly regiment of detectives.

Izzy Elinsonisms

Mebbe Coolidge isn't clicking as a columnist because he doesn't choose to pun...And a lotta people who are crying about business are calling him Mr. Boo-hoover...It's tough on Mrs. Gandhi. Imagine not having any pockets to go through at night.

Weather Note

When the themom hit 93 on Saturday an enterprising movie house owner on Eighth avenue had a signmaker rush over a sign reading:

"It is 40 degrees cooler in here!"

The sign enticed Lou Holtz, who ankled into the theater only to be struck in the face by a rush of hot wind. On his way out he saw a prostrate man on the floor.

"Who that guy?" asked Holtzie.

"That," was the reply devastating, "is the theater owner!"

Love Is Like That

I turned to you.
But you were gone.

Geo. Grainger: Your rhymes don't. Try again.
Betty Welch: Sorry, no.
Frank Carlin: That isn't so.

Observation

The old-fashioned woman who used to make a mountain out of a molehill now has a daughter who make a mole out of a pimple.

The Shop-Talkers

George Martin avers that he was near the convicted Bank of U. S. officials when they were being led out of the courtroom the other day, and that he overheard Marcus say to Singer:

"Well, that was a nice failure."

"Marcus," replied Singer, "it wasn't half so nice as a failure!"

Star Role

Charlie Ruggles has his first starring film role in "The Girl Habit," a comedy, which opens today in both the Fulton and the Sheridan Square theaters.

Ocean Fliers In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, the intrepid American fliers, are seen and heard in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News as they start on the first leg of their round-the-world flight. The two men are overflowing with that confidence which enabled them to reach England in 16 hours and Berlin in 24. All details of their flight are thrillingly described by the Globe Trotter. There are also pictures of Hillig and Hoiriis, who jumped for Denmark in their big Bellanca plane.

There are pictures from the air and from the ground of the great $10,000,000 fire that laid waste St. John, N. B. They show the great fire at its height. It was the worst blaze in any Canadian city since 1917, and destroyed many ships, docks, business houses and private residences.

Battle maneuvers, directed entirely by radio, are executed at Fort Bliss, Tex., and are vividly pictured. The "battle" is "fought" by a regiment of U. S. Cavalry and every move is directed by radio.

Some singers are occasionally accused of possessing an abundance of nerve. Marie Line, California prima donna, demonstrates that she has an unlimited supply of unusual caliber when she enters a den containing a score of savage lions at Luna Park, Los Angeles, Cal., and charmingly sings them a solo.

Gertrude Ederle's feat of swimming the English Channel may be put to shame by "Happy" Hazard, an inventor of Moshannon, Pa., who threatens to walk across it. "Happy" has invented a pair of water boots which he demonstrates by walking all over the surface of the lake. Although he has a couple of spills, he manages to right himself and walk safely back to shore.

From Johannesburg, South Africa, comes a weird and fantastic picture of a Zulu dance, which is carried on with singing and strange native music.

Owen D. Young, in a significant interview with the Globe Trotter, declares that he is squarely behind the President in the plan to postpone the payment of war debts.

Military police stage a spectacular gun drill in Mexico City and hundreds of these sturdy looking cops perform to band music amid a beautiful tropical setting.

Broadcast Permit Denied Mt. Pleasant

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—The Radio Commission has refused to authorize the Mt. Pleasant broadcasting station to construct a station at Mt. Pleasant, Pa. The decision sustained the recommendation of Examiner Pratt, who reported the Mt. Pleasant area now received satisfactory radio service and that there was no need for an additional station.

LANG ASKS NEW MOVIE BIDS

Preparations were being made today to readvertise for bids to furnish talking pictures for the city parks following action of Public Works Director Edward G. Lang rejecting seven offers because, he charged, the specifications eliminated "open and free competition."

Asked to name the faults in the specifications, Lang said:

"They are very technical. That's all I know of it."

Lang said he was informed from a "secret source" that something is wrong.

To be on the safe side, he declared, he instructed Controller Kerr to readvertise.

The pictures are to be shown for eight weeks, beginning July 19. Council recently appropriated $8,500 for the project.

DRYS MAP 1932 CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, June 26 (INS.)—Organized drys of the nation today formally opened their 1932 national political campaign, determined to force dry planks in the Republican and Democratic platforms and declaring war upon all anti-dry candidates for national office.

The newly organized board of strategy, including 44 of the leading drys of the nation, met here under the auspices of the National Conference of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment.

An effort to kill off Gov. Franklin Roosevelt, of New York, for the Democratic presidential nomination, and Senator Dwight Morrow, of New Jersey, for the Republican presidential or vice presidential nomination, was seen in the early organization. Dry leaders brought reports that the Roosevelt boom had made much progress in the dry south, despite his anti-prohibition stand.

Hoover to Receive Church Aid Pledge

President Hoover today was expected to receive a resolution by the Presbytery of Pittsburgh expressing admiration of the Executive and pledging him co-operation. The resolution, adopted at the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of Concord Presbyterian Church, Brownsville road, declared that President Hoover is "destined to play an important part in the spiritual rebirth of this and other nations."

PARK PRAISED FOR SPEED IN COURT WORK

Judge Moore Lauds Prompt Disposal of Jail Cases; Jurors Released Early

Efficiency of District Attorney Andrew T. Park drew commendation when Presiding Judge George V. Moore dismissed yesterday all of the Criminal Court petit jurors not engaged in trying cases, one day ahead of schedule, with the announcement that defendants in jail indicted as late as this week have been tried and the work of the court brought up to the minute.

Today a few juries are hearing the winding up of cases. They will be excused later in the day with not a criminal case left untried, excepting the few bail cases which, because of absence of witnesses or illness, have been postponed until fall.

Judge Moore said:

"I have just checked the jail calendar showing the number of defendants awaiting trial, and find considerable satisfaction in the fact that all defendants in jail indicted as late as this week, have been tried.

"This is a very healthy condition in the administration of our criminal law. Such a condition could not exist if it were not for the efficient performance of public duty on the part of those responsible for the prosecution of criminal cases.

"It is clear that splendid work in the public's interest has been done by District Attorney Andrew T. Park and his corps of capable assistants. Mr. Park's work has called for much energy and application, and the splendid results attained attach much credit to the district attorney's office. All the attaches of this court have contributed to the splendid situation and helped in bringing our Criminal Court trial work right up to the minute."

HELP PLEDGED MILK DRIVE

Mrs. Enoch Rauh and Dr. C. B. Mails, city physician, will confer with Dr. A. L. Lewin at 11 a. m. Monday on plans to furnish milk to children whose physical condition might otherwise be impaired during the school vacation period of July and August. Mrs. Rauh said:

"I stand ready to do anything I can for the health of Pittsburgh children."

According to Sidney Teller, of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement, milk will be served at cost—five cents a half-pint with ice and crackers—to more than 200 children every afternoon at the settlement. He recommends similar "milk wells" in every playground and park under city direction as a summer health measure.

After the Board of Education voted Wednesday against the expenditure of $15,000 for the summer distribution of milk to Pittsburgh children, a committee was appointed to confer with the city's Welfare Department and other municipal authorities.

DRIVER FLEES AFTER CRASH; FIVE HURT

Triple Collision Occurs On Babcock Boulevard; Machine Forced Into Wall

Five persons, including a mother and two small children, were injured in a collision of three automobiles on the Babcock boulevard near Keown Station early today. Two of the injured are reported to be in serious condition.

The victims were riding in a machine which was forced into a retaining wall when sideswiped by a hit-run driver. The third car struck the first as it rebounded from the wall.

The injured were in the car of James Baker, 60, of 5200 Carnegie avenue, which was forced against the wall by the hit-run driver. John Wagner, of Glenshaw, was reported as the driver of the car which hit the Baker machine. Those riding with Baker who were injured were John Krause, 33, of 5235 Carnegie avenue; his wife, Ellen, 31; John, Jr., 6; Ellen, 8 months; Joseph Krause, 54, of 3402 Kent way, grandparents of the children. They were taken to the St. Francis Hospital, where Mrs. Krause was reported suffering from a fractured skull, fractured right shoulder and internal injuries.

Kassel Goldstein, 77, of 5600 Darlington road, father of Alderman Saul Goldstein, who was struck by an automobile near his home, died last night in the West Penn Hospital of a fracture of the skull. Saul Binstock, 2630 Atwood street, the driver, was turned over to the coroner.

FIRM FILES TAX REFUND SUIT

The Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation filed a suit in Federal Court seeking a refund from the government of $288,819.24, which the corporation claims was erroneously collected as income and excess profit taxes for the year 1917.

The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad Company and the Mutual Supply Company, concerns affiliated with the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, filed actions for refunds of $10,284.84 and $786.54, respectively.

In statements of claims the three concerns aver the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, failed to make proper deductions for depletion, depreciation, interest payments and other reasons, and that collections were made after statutes of limitations.

A hearing will be held today before Federal Judge R. M. Gibson on the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation's application for an injunction to enjoin the government from selling coal properties of the corporation, for taxes claimed in the amount of $287,953, and interest, amounting to $378,366.89.

BOY RESCUED BY POLICEMAN

Allen Foster, 14, of 28 South Nineteenth street, was alive today because of the rescue effected last night by Lieut. Edward Fallon, who crawled 100 feet out on the dam at Lock No. 1, in the Monongahela River, when he found Foster clinging to the dam.

Foster told Lieut. Fallon that he and Henry Morris, 17, South Side, and a third boy known as "Eddie," were rowing in the river above the dam when their skiff overturned.

Morris and the other boy were swept over the dam and swam to shore, but Foster caught hold of the wall, and hung there while his two companions rushed to South Side Police Station.

Fallon, with Patrolman Thomas Kirley, went to the dam and saw the boy was hanging to a projection. He had been clinging to the ledge for more than 20 minutes, it was said. Foster said he was none the worse for his experience today.

Miss Lydia Patterson, secretary of the company, was returning from the City Deposit Bank, according to the police, with two bags containing the money, which were snatched from her in Shady avenue, near Aurelia street.

The bandit jumped onto a moving automobile and escaped down Denniston avenue. A truck driver, who witnessed the robbery, gave chase, but lost the passenger car in the traffic, according to police.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TERM ENDS

One hundred and one thousand pupils of the public school of Pittsburgh today were released for their summer vacation of two months.

Many have said goodbye for the last time and will not return, having been graduated from high schools during the past week.

Today, some of the schools are celebrating the end of the term by holding picnics.

There was but a brief session today that the teachers might collect books and arrange their paper work for the closing.

At the Board of Public Education, it was stated the exact number of pupils released today was 101,634. Many of the county schools, having a 10-month term, also closed today. Other county schools have been closing during the past two months.

Kitty Slaps Floor-Walker And Her New Job Is Threatened

CHAPTER II.

"Yes, yes, I see, Mr. Thornton. You mean—"

Mr. Fallon hesitated as if he really didn't see at all. I stood quite still behind them, pretending to be interested in something across the aisle.

"I mean what I said—she will attract the men, therefore put her where she will wait on them."

"Of course I'm right. One has to think of everything in this profession." Mr. Thornton responded sharply, and turned away.

I nearly laughed in Mr. Fallon's face when he turned to me, because it had never struck me that being a department store employe was a profession.

All this time Molly had been examining things on the next counter, waiting to be put to work. She hadn't heard the conversation. Mr. Fallon turned to me and found me apparently so interested in what was going on at another counter that he didn't suspect I had heard a word.

But I had heard, and my heart was thumping.

What girl doesn't like to be complimented?

She must be dumb or abnormal if it doesn't make her happy.

"Er—ah yes, Miss Mason let me see," and Mr. Fallon pretended to be solving a deep mental problem. "yes, I have it—I will put you over here. Mrs. Wayne will instruct you and tell you about prices if necessary."

What a cheap little skate I thought, pretending to be so wise, instead of being honest enough to tell me that the floor manager wanted me to work at the counter. But I didn't care much. I was too excited over everything. Molly went to the perfume counter, close to where I was located.

A QUICK SALE

How quickly the quiet store with its covered counters was transformed into a scene of liveliness!

I tried to listen attentively as Mrs. Wayne explained things, but Mr. Thornton's words were constantly going through my mind: "One flash from her eyes and any man is sunk!"

Mrs. Wayne was busy when I saw a man coming to the counter. He was well-dressed and elderly. He wanted shaving cream and some blades. Here was my chance to see if Mr. Thornton was right about me and my eyes.

"Here is something exceptionally good," I said, displaying a bottle of violet-colored stuff for the hair.

Then I "flashed" my eyes on

Synopsis

Katherine Mason believes that a girl's chief object in life is to play around and have a good time. She is fond of Peter Thompson, who adores her, but not so sure that she wants to be a poor man's wife. Because she has to start working in a store is no reason, she believes, for missing any opportunity to have a good time, and she is thrilled when she hears the floor manager declare that one flash from her eyes and "any man is sunk."

WE NOW PRESENT

By HOWARD L. BROWNING, JR.

Moustache bristling, hair drawn back over shiny bald spot, buxom Paul Whiteman dedicates his program over KDKA at 10 p. m. tonight to romance and June brides. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," of course, will be the first of the program. If it's so late in the month that you're tired of the march, Paul's offering a list of pretty fair dance numbers which his orchestration will make better and you can tune in a little late, miss the march.

Whiteman

Golf—unless you think in terms of hazards—has nothing to do with romance, but all the same Ted Husing offers a play-by-play account of the Ryder Cup golf matches, at Columbus, O., over WJAS at 5 p. m. Eight American pros and eight British pros will tramp the fairways and greens.

And that should remind you that wearers of the green will all tune in John Kelvin, Irish tenor, after a half-hour of Husing. It's an all-Irish program. Ballads. WJAS.

Italy, in its day, has produced some fairly well known men, like Caesar and Cato and Mussolini and Caruso and Marconi and Nero, a great fiddler. Not so well known, perhaps, is Enrico Clausi, a tenor, who bows—vocally—to the public over KDKA and the NBC Blue network at 9 p. m. Tuesday, on Alice Mock's program.

Canada, to the geographer, is a country, to the politician, it is a wet country; to the summer-bound Pittsburgher, it is a cool wet country. Not politicians and not summer-bound, but Pittsburghers all the same, the Red Arrow Quartet is lucky tonight to be broadcasting over CFCH, North Bay, Ontario, and, tomorrow night over Toronto's CKGW. The first at 8 p. m., the latter at 7:15 p. m.

If business keeps you in town, dial to KDKA at 8:45 tonight for John Gurney, "Follies" baritone. They say he's good.

SHOES IMPORTANT IN FASHION'S PATHWAY

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 26.—Unless one is beautifully shod, it is impossible to keep in step in the fashion parade. Always important, shoes this season are more so than ever. Shoes must be individual, but the too ornate is frowned upon for daytime wear, however formal the occasion. Of the models now being worn, the opera pump, plain and in many interesting variations, and also the sandal, seem to be first favorites. Sandals are ideal for warm weather wear besides being kind to the foot that is inclined to be a bit unkind to its owner. The classic opera pump apparently is on an eternal march along the pathway of fashion, for it is with us season after season. Indeed, there are some fashionable women who are so addicted to this style of shoe that they wear it in various fabrics and leathers for all occasions from sports to very grand formal events. Popular this year is the idea of pairing the shoe and handbag, one of the nicest of the matched accessories idea.

WE SHOW TODAY some sketches of the models which Mme. Julienne is exhibiting at the enormously colorful Colonial Exposition. The Julienne shoes and sandals shown are splendid examples of the shoemaker's craft, as can be seen from the sketches. The afternoon shoe and purse are both in matching green marocain, dotted with white and combined with darker green antelope. Chinese heads carved from cocoanut shell decorate the side of the shoe and serve as a clasp on the purse. The lower drawing shows a smart sandal in bright green kid, combined with white cotton braid. The two buttons are of green and white carved wood.

THE CHARMING afternoon hat is by Mme. Jose. The chocolate colored picot straw is simply but attractively trimmed with two shades of satin ribbon, one matching the tone of the straw, the other a delicate creamy pink. Slashes in the straw enable the ribbons to appear both below and above the brim and a smart bow is placed at the left side, rather far back.

Mellon Places Memorial Wreath On War Debts

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

France is a trifle backward in coming forward on that debt holiday.

Mr. Mellon is having a difficult time trying to convince the French that the worst is all for the best.

America, England and Germany have agreed. We are calling off the German debts and Germany is willing to do its share.

This just about completes the circle. Lindy took over the goodwill. And Andy took over the fixtures.

Mr. Mellon will lay a memorial wreath on the war debts.

Then he will dedicate a big decimal point.

The debt holiday will last a year with an option on the future.

But you can hardly blame France for being sore over being frustrated in her efforts to tunnel a channel through Germany's treasury.

It's the third big cancel she's started. And never finished.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 26.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I never saw a man jump into a hero's berth as quick as President Hoover did. Why, this time last week he was in as bad as a Democrat; now he is proposed for the Nobel Peace Prize. Wall street has broke out on another rampage. Of course the unemployed here ain't eating regular; but we will get round to them soon as we get everybody else fixed up O. K. I still claim, as I did a month ago, that all debts should be canceled. But my scheme didn't hit the international banking group with the same gusto that Mr. Hoover's did. I was appealing to the wrong class.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, June 26.—The sahibs of the studios have no refuge for old-fashioned cuss words. Or new-fashioned, for that matter. Smedley P. Butler can't get away with it, and I doubt if Gen. Dawes would be permitted to air his old standby, "Hell and Maria." Only Robert Ripley seems to be able to thumb his nose at the broadcasters. He does it by referring to a town with the singular name of Hell.

A new distinction falls to Julius Tannen, glibbest of Broadway's jesters. In a program at the Times Square studio the other night, laughter, greeting his wisecracks, actually penetrated the glass curtain designed, my dear eavesdroppers, to shut out any such audience noise.

Radio may now find regular room for Tannen as it has found occasional room. None of Broadway's outstanding funny men have gone over permanently to radio. They are still listed as guest artists, from Massa Jolson to Lou Holtz, from Groucho Marx to George Jessel. If they studied radio technique carefully—William S. Paley once talked to us along this line—they might corral conspicuous places in the broadcasting sun.

Dance maestros are the most individual in their broadcasting styles. All of them affect different methods for pulling "Just a Gigolo" from saxophones. There is the swarthy Leo Reisman waving his hands violently over head, there is the rotund Rolfe using his fingers in a manner of a curb exchange broker, there is Lombardo leading his band with a violin bow, there is Lopez, as erect and dignified as a Philharmonic conductor, there is Lown bobbing up and down like a Tony Sarg toy, there is Whiteman with a baton three feet long.

The dance bandmen are the darlings of the microphone. They comprise most of the evening hours. They are a sleek, happy lot, not showing on the surface much jealousy of each other. They are never out of work. A few save their shekels. But saving money is not their idea of life's goal. They feel themselves an important cog in civilization. They bring the illusion of romance to countless thousands. Yet, most of them are rich men who sport luxurious penthouses, cabin cruisers, three-car garages.

A lucky star still hovers over the Bennett family. Here are Constance and Joan, dazzlers of the screen, whose services are constantly in demand at fabulous fees. Here is Barbara, a famous dancer, but best known as the wife of Morton Downey, successful sentimentalist of the ether.

Before his marriage Downey had not achieved any particular bright spot in the amusement kingdom. Today he has leaped to the top of the radio heap, his income being estimated at what the boys call 10 grand a week. All because of an ingratiating way of singing an amorous ballad—high, clear and with unmistakable sincerity.

"It's the sincerity more than anything else that has put him over. He can take a hackneyed tune like "Carolina Moon" and give the bright young women—and the trying-to-keep-bright old ones—among his listeners the impression that he has a message directly for each one of them. Vallee's popularity was built upon just such a foundation. Yeah, it pays to be sincere on the microphone.

Beer, Milk Endanger French Wine Trade

PARIS—(AP.) — French wine makers are genuinely alarmed over the decrease in wine drinking both in France and abroad. While wine is losing favor, beer and milk are becoming more popular. Advertising by milk companies recently roused the ire of the wine merchants, who claim that heavy governmental taxes are driving drinkers to milk and other products.

JUDGE STANDS BY CHARGE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 26.—(AP.)—Prosecution of Ray Thomas, Mahoning County prosecutor, continued to tighten today as Judge J. H. C. Lyon, of Youngstown, stood by his assertion that Thomas wrote the letter on which the state bases its charge of blackmail against him.

Subjecting the judge to cross-examination, the defense endeavored to show that he as well as Judge David G. Jenkins, who testified for the state yesterday, and others on the Mahoning Common Pleas bench, had entertained animosity against the defendant.

Judge Lyon had corroborated a statement of Judge Jenkins on the stand that Thomas wrote the letter to the City Council so that Harry Engle, former traction commissioner, would be forced to waive immunity in a grand jury investigation. Thomas, in the alleged letter, accused Engle of blackmailing officials of the former Pennsylvania and Ohio Light and Power Company in order to collect secret remuneration.

SAYS WIFE LEFT WITH RIVAL

A wife, confined to a hospital with pneumonia, was gone with another man when her husband called to visit her, according to the testimony of William J. Shipley, Jr., 35, of 941 Washington road, granted a divorce from Frances Shipley, 33, 5606 Harvard street, by Judge S. J. Snee in Common Pleas Court.

They were married December 24, 1923, and she deserted him February 5, 1927, according to Shipley, who testified:

"She was sick and I put her in a hospital. The doctor said she had pneumonia. I went to call on her and she was gone, with another man. He came to the house and got her clothes and I never saw or heard from her since. She left me several times before that."

Patricia Pitt

I'm sure that most of the Pittsburgh and Sewickley social set will find today a very eventful day indeed. Next to her wedding, a smart young thing's debut proves perhaps her most exciting moment, and today folks will attend the presentation of still another attractive young bud, Martha Mitchell Yost, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Milton Yost, of Edgeworth. She is making her bow at a tea this afternoon in her home.

Martha is receiving in the drawing room, with her mother and her aides. And before I tell you about them, I want to tell you what the deb is wearing. Her dress is of crepe de chine in turquoise blue, with touches of beige lace and sleeves of lace. Her mother has chosen a gown of beige chiffon and lace.

Aiding At Debut

The tea table is laid with a cloth of peach moire and centered with a white bowl filled with varicolored delphinium. The other rooms are simply decorated with vases of gay garden flowers.

Another June wedding was added to the brilliant procession of brides when Carolyn Margaret McKee, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George J. McKee, of St. James street, became the bride of Dr. A. Boyd Miller, Jr., of Erie, last night at 7:30 o'clock.

McKee Wedding

Before an embankment of cibotium ferns, bamboos and pink hydrangeas in the Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, the ceremony took place. Candelabras bearing cathedral candles lighted the scene, and large stone urns holding garden flowers marked the aisle.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin having a yoke of Alencon lace with the same lace trimming the sleeves. A veil of tulle cascaded from a cap of the lace over a full court train of satin. She carried lilies of the valley, white bouvardia and lavender orchids.

In Ivory Satin

Mrs. William B. Withus, of Rochester, N. Y., the matron of honor, wore orchid silk lace and net over taffeta with the skirt having two tiers, edged in lace. Jean Henninger, the maid of honor, wore a similar frock in green; Caroline Murray and Mary Agnes Miller, sister of the bridegroom, who were bridesmaids, wore gowns in the same mode in pink. Dorothy Sharpnack, of Charleroi, and Theodora Bennett, of New York, who were bridesmaids, too, were in blue, and Susan Carson, of Riverton, Va., and Anne Sherrard, of Pittsburgh, who completed the procession of bridesmaids, were in yellow.

The mother of the bride wore flesh-colored lace, and the mother of the bridegroom rose beige lace; both had corsages of orchids.

Lace Gowns

Wilbur Miller, of Corning, N. Y., was his brother's best man.

A reception followed in the home of the bride's parents with summer flowers used in decorating. After September 1, following their return from a Canadian trip, Dr. Miller and his bride will live in Pittsburgh.

* * *

Mrs. George Hubbard Clapp and Mrs. William Avres Galbraith, daughter of Mrs. Clapp, entertained at a luncheon yesterday in the Allegheny Country Club honoring Mrs. Clapp's daughter, Mrs. William Welch Collin, Jr., of Sewickley. Mrs. Collin will leave next week for her summer place in Kennebunkport, Me.

Honoring Daughter

Accompanying her will be Mr. Collin, their daughter, Georgianna, and their younger children. Their daughter, Katherine, is home from a house party given by Mollie Cullum at "Riveredge Farms," Reading, Pa., the summer home of the J. Barlow Cullums. Katherine will remain in Sewickley with her grandmother, Mrs. Clapp.

Miss Bess L. Gelman Marries Henry Schor

The marriage of Miss Bess L. Gelman, daughter of Mrs. S. Rose Gelman, of Ophelia street, to Henry Schor was solemnized last night at 8:30 o'clock.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Harold Gelman. Her matron of honor was Mrs. Jerome Gelman, and maid of honor, Miss Edith Monheim. Miss Edythe Gelman, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Joseph Schor served as his brother's best man. Leo Schor, Joseph M. Cohn, E. Louis Feldman and Edwin Goldberg served as ushers.

Mrs. Herman Ehrenworth sang, accompanied by Mrs. Edward Lenchner.

TEMPORARY CLUBHOUSE TO OPEN

First Unit of New Bridgeville Building to Be Used as Home for Present

What will eventually be only the front part of the permanent clubhouse will be opened tonight as the temporary home of the Bridgeville Woman's Club. The property as it now stands represents an investment of $8,000 and is so planned that it will comfortably house the club for the next two or three years, or until the members are ready to add the remainder of their building.

A neat little one-story and basement frame building on Dewey avenue now affords a commodious assembly room on the first floor and dining room, kitchen and rest room below stairs, a many-shelved dumb waiter making a linking convenience.

The building is of early Colonial type, white with green shutters, roof and trimming. Inside the woodwork is all done in walnut stain, against which the warm buff walls and natural silk hangings are effective. The assembly room, carpeted in a plain rust color, has a charming fireplace, on the mantel of which stands an electric clock in Colonial design, the gift of the past presidents.

A grand piano is the juniors' gift and they have also contributed to the building fund for two years. All over the house one sees evidences of the generosity of friends, among them the Pittsburgh department stores. Mrs. George P. Murray has given the officers' table of two-toned brown mahogany.

Juniors Help

On the lower floor, an arresting architectural feature is the ceiling-high red brick fireplace in the dining room. Here the club's book shelves, already filled, are to be found. The rest room has been done in tones of orchid. The lighting fixtures throughout are especially attractive and add much to the general pleasing effect. The grounds at the front of the clubhouse have been grass-sown and planted with spirea, honeysuckle and other shrubbery.

The entire town is invited to the opening tonight, when Mrs. J. Lloyd MacKown, the president, and her officers and the junior officers will be present to receive the guests.

The affair which Rose Chapter No. 92, Order of the Eastern Star, has arranged for Monday evening, July 6, will be a homecoming roll call and spelling bee. It will be held in Moose Temple. Mrs. Edna Shupe is worthy matron of the chapter and Mrs. Althea Redman, associate matron.

That each member bring a new idea to the next season's first club meeting on October 2, so that a year of worthwhile activities may be mapped out, was suggested by Miss Catherine Norton, new president of the Oakland Women's Club, as she took office yesterday. Miss Norton received the gavel from her predecessor, Mrs. J. W. Frey, at the annual luncheon of the club at the Pines. The luncheon was one of the largest outings the club has ever had, covers being laid for 125. Among the guests was little Pauline Wilson, granddaughter of Mrs. J. Charles Wilson, prominent member of the organization. Mrs. W. F. Webb offered the invocation, and an arm bouquet of flowers was presented to Mrs. Frey by Mrs. Norval R. Daugherty, who is also a past president.

Welsh Clubs to Meet Next in Philadelphia

The Women's Welsh Clubs of America will hold their 1932 convention in Philadelphia. Yesterday, in session at the William Penn Hotel, they elected these officers: President, Mrs. Erskine Maiden, Jr., Youngstown; vice presidents, Mrs. J. S. Pletsch, Columbus, and Mrs. Elizabeth Kennedy, Niles; secretary, Mrs. C. R. Evans, Bay Village, O.; financial secretary, Mrs. R. E. Tilden, Cleveland, and treasurer, Mrs. A. A. Kane, Warren.

About 700 attended the banquet which closed the annual convention last night and which was addressed by Senator James J. Davis. He spoke of the important part the Welsh people have played in American history and, in discussing American economic life, he stressed the place women occupy as the spenders of a large part of the national income. Through effective organization and emphasis on modern educational interests women can help solve the problems of the machine age, he said.

Music was furnished by a quartet composed of Elizabeth L. Kirkpatrick, Mary Reese Wilson, Joseph Jenkins and Reese R. Reese, with Miss Jane Davies accompanying. Miss Iva Keefer offered readings.

Fashion Decrees Skirts 2 to 3 Inches Longer

PARIS.—"Longer skirts" is the latest fashion cry.

The daytime frocks and suits exhibited at the last style collections displayed skirts from two to three inches longer than early spring models, putting knees completely out of sight.

The fashionable woman this summer will wear her luncheon and shopping frocks 12 inches from the ground, while formal afternoon gowns have dropped to six inches from the floor.

Only two exceptions to the new edict mark the mode. Sport skirts are worn no longer than four inches below the knee and informal dinner and evening frocks terminate at the ankle.

The ankle-length frock for restaurant dining is one of the favorite fashions these days, although formal evening gowns miss the floor by less than an inch.

With the rule for longer skirts has come a tendency to accented hemlines. Many daytime suits and frocks have hems scalloped, pinked, picoted or faced underneath with a color lighter than the frock.

A favorite evening elegance is the transparent hem.

Butter Contributes Copious Supply of Vitamins

Butter, even of poor quality, has higher vitamin content than any of its substitutes.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner of New York City,
United States Senator From New York.

Next to milk, butter is considered as "the most perfect food." Recent studies have thrust this food into the limelight of dietary discussion. Much is being said now about its vitamin content.

Butter is more universally eaten than any other food. Oleomargarine, a widely used substitute, is consumed in about one-fifth the quantity of butter.

An easily digested form of fat is found in butter. It has a pleasant taste and flavor. In addition, it is of importance because of its high fuel content. Since butter consists mainly of fat, its caloric value is higher than that of almost every other food.

The vitamin content of butter is of tremendous importance. This food contributes an abundant supply of vitamin A. In oleomargarine and other butter substitutes the vitamin content is absent. Even butter of poor quality is of higher vitamin content and of greater nourishing quality than any butter substitute.

Vitamin A is essential for normal growth and development. In addition, this vitamin helps in the prevention of certain infections. It is of particular value in the prevention of diseases of the eye. Lack of vitamin A renders the body more susceptible to infectious diseases.

At one time substitute butter products were in great demand because of unsanitary conditions existing in the manufacture of butter. Further, butter of good quality was expensive, and for economic reasons many persons preferred the substitute.

Fresh butter no longer commands the high prices it formerly did. The manufacture of butter is now conducted under the most sanitary methods. In comparing food values, butter greatly exceeds the highest-grade substitute. Butter is the food of choice.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

BROWNED COCOANUT NUM NUM—Combine ¾ cup sugar and ¾ cup hot water in a casserole and heat in a hot, 450-degree oven until the sugar is dissolved, stirring occasionally. Combine 3 tablespoons raisins, chopped, 3 tablespoons broken nutmeats, 3 tablespoons chopped dates, and fill the centers of 4 pared and cored apples with the mixture. Brush the apples with melted butter. Place in the casserole, cover closely, and bake 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate, 350 degrees, uncover, bake 45 minutes longer, basting the apples occasionally with the sirup. Sprinkle the tops of the apples with shredded cocoanut and continue baking till the cocoanut browns. Serve hot with cream, and you have a noble dessert.

RICE PUDDING FRAPPE—½ cup rice, 5 cups milk, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup whipped cream, ¼ cup candied ginger.

Wash the rice well, then mix it with the milk, sugar and salt, pour into a baking pan and place in a very moderate oven—300 degrees—to bake from 2 to 3 hours. Stir frequently for the first hour, then add the vanilla and finish baking without stirring. Chill thoroughly, skim off the crust and fold in the ginger cut in tiny pieces and half the whipped cream. Arrange in sherbet glasses, topping each with a rosette of cream and a bit of ginger. Chill almost to freezing before serving.

HAMBURG STEAK ON ONION RINGS — Slice Spanish onion about one-half inch thick, and place six slices in a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper; add 2 tablespoons melted butter, cover the dish closely, and bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes until tender. Mix 1 pound chopped lean raw beef with ¼ cup ground suet, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, salt and pepper, and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley which has been cooked in 3 tablespoons butter. Mold into flat cakes, and wrap each one with a slice of bacon. Place one on each onion slice in the baking dish, and broil five minutes on each side. Baste with the fat in pan, adding 1 tablespoon water.

CORN FLAKE MACAROONS—Beat the whites of 2 eggs until they are stiff enough to hold their shape, but not until they lose their shiny appearance. Fold carefully a cup of brown sugar. Fold in 2 cups cornflakes, ½ cup chopped nutmeats and a cup of shredded cocoanut. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla extract. Drop on a greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees—about 15 to 20 minutes. Remove the pan from the oven, place on a damp towel and remove macaroons immediately with a spatula or sharp knife. If macaroons become hardened to the pan, they may be put in the oven a few minutes to soften. Enough for 1½ dozen macaroons.

CANTALOUPE COCKTAIL—Mix together the required amount of cantaloupe balls, a fourth that quantity of seeded, peeled grapes and a few halved maraschino cherries. Pour over all a little of the cherry juice, add a dash of lemon juice and sweeten with powdered sugar. Place in a covered bowl in the electric refrigerator to chill thoroughly. Serve in chilled glasses.

HONEY MACAROON MOUSSE—Beat 1½ pint cream until stiff. Add gradually ¼ cup powdered sugar, then ¼ cup honey and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Fold in 1½ cups of crushed or rolled cornflake macaroons, and put the mixture in the refrigerator pan in the chilling unit for four hours.

POTATO FRITTERS—Two cups hot, riced potatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, well beaten, ½ cup flour, 2 tablespoons cream, Cayenne, 2 egg yolks, beaten.

Add cream and seasonings to the riced potatoes. Add eggs, put bowl containing the mixture into a pan of iced water and beat. Add flour and when well mixed drop by spoonsful into deep hot fat and drain on brown paper. Serve at once.

SALMON LOAF WITH CHEESE—Two cups salmon, flaked, 1½ cups grated cheese, 1 egg, well beaten, 3 tablespoons milk, 1 tablespoon melted butter, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, cracker crumbs.

Combine the ingredients, using enough crumbs to obtain a stiff mixture. Shape into a loaf in a buttered baking pan. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in moderate oven until golden brown. Serve with a cream sauce.

STUFFED HALIBUT ROAST—Two one-pound slices halibut steak (½-inch thick), 3 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Wash the fish, remove the skin and wipe dry. Place one slice on the roaster rack. Sprinkle with half the salt and pepper. Cover with stuffing, using three-fourths of the mixture. Put the second slice of halibut on top. Dot with butter and seasonings. Place the remaining stuffing on top of this. Bake uncovered in a hot oven (485 degrees F.) for 20 to 25 minutes. Yield: Six servings.

BAKED HAWAIIAN SWEET POTATOES—Cook two very large or three small sweet potatoes; then cut in thick slices. Arrange the sliced potatoes in layers with 1 cup crushed pineapple, in a buttered baking dish. Dot with lumps of butter, using 2 tablespoons butter for this purpose. Slice 2 bananas lengthwise, roll in 1 tablespoon sugar, and arrange in a layer over the top. Sprinkle with ⅛ teaspoon salt. Bake in a moderately hot oven about 30 minutes.

MEAT BIRDS—This is a dish very similar to mock duck. Use small pieces of beef cut from the round, about 2 by 4 inches in size. They should be about ½ inch thick, as with the mock duck. Pound each piece well and spread with dressing, roll up, fasten with string or toothpicks. Roll each piece in flour and sear.

Wrap each piece with a piece of bacon and fasten with toothpick. Bake slowly in a covered pan from 3 to 4 hours. The fat from the bacon will do the basting.

For these dressings any kind of bread may be used and this is an excellent way of using stale bread. The bread may be broken up, ground up, or, if not too stale, grated.

It should then be seasoned well with onion juice or finely minced onion, salt, pepper, sage, parsley, celery seed, etc. A small amount of fat and some liquid are used. Be careful not to get the dressing too wet, as it will be soggy.

The fat will help keep it from being pasty, although too much will make it too rich.

SCALLOPED TOMATOES—Two medium tender onions, salt, pepper, 1 quart tomatoes, 2 cups bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons butter.

Cut onion in thin slices and saute in hot butter a few minutes without discoloring the onion. Butter a baking dish; put in a

FRUIT SALAD—Mix together ¾ cup marshmallows, cut in strips; a cup of pineapple cubes; 1½ cups Malaga grapes, skinned, seeded and cut in halves; ¾ orange or tangerine sections and ¼ cup of English walnuts, cut in pieces.

Season with a few grains of salt. Moisten with a cream dressing. Fill dainty orange baskets with the salad. Cover the top with dressing, garnish with a marshmallow, and serve on lettuce.

MUSHROOM BROTH CUBES—Combine a quart of chicken stock with a half pound of sliced mushrooms, 2 stalks of diced celery, a small sliced onion, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅓ teaspoon pepper. Let simmer 15 minutes, then strain. Add a package of lemon flavored gelatin. Cool. Pour into freezing trays until firm. Cut into ½-inch cubes. Serve in a half grapefruit shell. Use a package of gelatin to any 4 cups of liquid.

CRAB MEAT SALAD—Moisten a cup of flaked canned crabmeat with ⅔ cup of celery cut in small pieces, 6 small tomatoes, peeled, chilled and quartered, with mayonnaise. Arrange on lettuce and garnish attractively with nut-and-pimiento stuffed olives, with sweet pickles, and a little mound of mayonnaise on top.

SPANISH BAKED EGGS—Fry 3 tablespoons chopped onion and 3 tablespoons chopped green pepper in 4 tablespoons butter until slightly brown, and pour into a baking dish. Carefully break six eggs into the dish, keeping the eggs whole. Mix ½ cup grated cheese with ¼ cup bread crumbs, and sprinkle over the eggs. Bake in a moderate oven long enough for the eggs to set. Serve in the baking dish. Small individual baking dishes may be used instead of the large dish.

CHICKEN AND CUCUMBER SALAD—Marinate a cup of diced, cooked chicken, a cucumber, pared and cubed, a cup of chopped walnut meats, and a cup of the small canned peas with French dressing. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise. You may add chopped pimiento and chopped olives to this salad at your own discretion. And any vegetable or meat salad is the better for a side-dish of mixed pickles.

SPICED PLUMS—Four quarts plums; 1 pint vinegar, 3 pounds sugar, 1 tablespoon each of cloves, cinnamon, allspice.

Wash the plums, dry them and place them in a stone jar. Boil the vinegar, sugar and spices together for 10 minutes and pour this hot syrup over the plums. Cover the jar and let it stand overnight. Drain off the liquid and heat it. When it is boiling add the plums and cook them until they are clear, but not until they begin to break. Pack them in clean, hot jars and pour the pickling syrup over them. Seal. The plums should not lose their color and should remain firm and plump in appearance.

FRUITED RICE PUDDING—A cup cooked rice, ½ pint cherry gelatine, cubed; ½ pint pineapple crushed, ½ cup cherries, ½ cup nuts, 1 cup whipped cream.

Mix rice with fruit and nuts and carefully fold in the whipped cream. Mix well and then fold in the cherry gelatine which has been made according to direction and when firm cut into small cubes. Chill thoroughly before serving.

ORANGE BAVARIAN CREAM—Soak a tablespoon granulated gelatin in ¼ cup cold water for 5 minutes, and dissolve by standing cup containing mixture in hot water. Add to a cup of orange juice and pulp. Add a tablespoon lemon juice, ½ cup sugar, and a sprinkling of salt. When it begins to jell, fold in a cup of cream whipped; turn into a cold mold, and let become firm.

CARAMEL BREAD PUDDING—Scald 1 quart milk in the top of a double boiler. In a frying pan, melt ½ cup sugar, stirring constantly until the sugar forms a golden syrup. Add this syrup to the scalded milk and stir until it dissolves. Add 2 cups bread crumbs and allow to stand until the crumbs are soft. Then add 2 eggs, slightly beaten, ¾ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake one hour in a moderate oven. Serve with either whipped or plain cream.

BAKED ORANGES—Cut oranges in halves. Remove seeds and core, fill centers of each with a little sugar, dot with butter. Put in baking dish with water to cover bottom, and bake in moderate (375-degree) oven, for about two hours.

PEACH AND APPLE CONSERVE—Use equal parts of peaches and apples diced. If the apples are a good color do not peel them. Add three-fourths as much sugar as fruit. Cook the mixture slowly until it is thick and clear. Seal in clean, hot jars.

ROAST VEAL WITH PRUNES AND BACON—Have the bone removed from four-pound round of veal. Stuff with a bread dressing; sprinkle with salt and pepper and coat thickly with flour. Bake in a moderate oven about two hours until the meat is tender. Baste every 15 minutes with ¼ cup butter melted in a cup of boiling water.

Drain cooked prunes from their liquor, and when cool, wrap each one in a strip of bacon, fastened with a toothpick. Broil under moderate heat until the bacon is crisp. Serve hot with the veal.

NUT BRITTLE ICE CREAM—Crush a cup of walnut or peanut brittle with a rolling pin, stir it into a cup of whipped cream, turn into the freezing pan and freeze about 3 hours. Sprinkle a little additional crushed brittle over each portion when serving.

ALL-BRAN BROUGHT WELCOME RELIEF

THOUSANDS of letters attest to the efficiency of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in overcoming constipation. For instance, Mr. James D. McEnery, Alto, Texas, relates his experience:

"For fifteen years I was constantly bothered with constipation. . . . Some eighteen months ago, I began using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. From the first week to this good day, I have never had to take a dose of laxative medicine of any description."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the largest-selling all-bran cereal in the world. Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to give relief. How much safer than using habit-forming laxatives.

ALL-BRAN also adds needed iron to build the blood. In the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

add flaked fish and chill on platter in the refrigerator. Shape into cutlets, dip in egg, crumb and egg and deep fat fry a golden brown. Drain and serve on platter garnished with parsley and slices of lemon.

LEMON CREAM PIE—Mix together 1 cup slightly diluted evaporated milk, and boil until very thick. Add 1 tablespoon butter and pour slowly over 2 slightly beaten egg yolks. Cook in double boiler till thick. Add 4 tablespoons lemon juice and ⅛ teaspoon salt, and the grated rind from 1 lemon, and cool. Pour into a baked pastry shell. Cover with a meringue made by beating 2 egg whites stiff, then adding 6 tablespoons confectioners' sugar slowly and beating until creamy and thick. Place in a slow oven, at 300 degrees, for 15 minutes.

PEACH PIE WITH WHOLE WHEAT CRUST—Drain a can of sliced peaches and lay them evenly in a pie tin lined with whole wheat pastry. Mix ½ cup sugar and 4 tablespoons white flour and sprinkle over. Dot with 4 tablespoons butter and pour over 2-3 cup peach syrup. Cover with upper crust and bake in a hot oven, 425 to 450 degrees, for 30 minutes.

ICED FRUIT COCKTAIL—Buy a quantity of orange sherbet and keep it in the freezing tray of the electric refrigerator. Cut up a fresh pear, ½ pound of seeded and skinned grapes, a banana and an orange, and mix them together; place in a covered bowl in the electric refrigerator. At serving time put some of the fruit mixture into the bottom of a chilled glass, add a spoonful of sherbet on top and send to the table at once. This is a simply noble dessert, too, but serve larger portions for dessert than for the first course.

BAKED STUFFED PEPPERS—Any cooked soup meat may be used for stuffing the peppers. Grind the meat, together with an onion, and the top slices of 6 green peppers. Add 3 tablespoons catsup, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, and salt and pepper. Scoop out the peppers, and fill with the meat mixture. Dot the tops with fat or butter, and place in a pan. Pour 1 cup water in the bottom of the pan and baste with this water during baking.

DEVILED TOMATOES—Cut 3 large tomatoes in halves crosswise and cover with bread crumbs. Broil 6 to 8 minutes; then serve with hot deviled sauce prepared in this way: Mash 1 hard-cooked egg yolk, add 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon powdered sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt and a dash of mustard and pepper. Beat for 1 minute, add 1½ tablespoons vinegar, heat almost to the boiling point, and stir in 1 beaten raw egg. Stir until thick (about 1 minute), and strain.

RHUBARD FRUIT SALAD—Bake 2 cups rhubarb cut into small pieces with ½ cup sugar, until the rhubarb is tender, but remains unbroken. Bake in a moderate over about one hour. Drain. When thoroughly cold, marinate in French dressing made with lemon juice instead of vinegar. Arrange on individual plates with a half of canned pear on lettuce leaves. Sprinkle with French dressing, and garnish with candied ginger.

WHOLE WHEAT PASTRY—Sift 1 2-3 cups whole wheat flour and ¾ teaspoon salt together and cut in a half cup of shortening. Add ice water until the proper consistency to roll, using as little as possible and handling as lightly as can be. Makes crust for one large pie.

PEAS COUNTRY STYLE—To 2 cups shelled peas, allow four young, tender carrots and a small onion. Scrape and slice the carrots and cook them and the peas in just enough water to cover, adding a level teaspoon of sugar. When nearly tender, add the chopped onion and a generous tablespoon of butter. Add salt to taste. Simmer until the onion is cooked.

STORE DELIVERY STUDY PLANNED

A study of principal problems involved in the rendering of delivery service by Washington retail stores will shortly be begun by the United States Commerce Department, Dr. Frank M. Surface, assistant director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, announced today.

The retail delivery service is being undertaken at the request of the National Dry Goods Association, which will co-operate with the department in carrying out the work.

The retail delivery study as outlined by the merchandising research division of the department which will conduct the work, is to be nation-wide in scope. Department stores, dry goods and specialty establishments in representative cities of various sections will be contacted directly or through questionnaires in order to elicit the information which is expected to indicate the comparative results obtained from the different types of delivery service used.

The data as obtained from these concerns will be classified by both type of store and size, as indicated by annual sales volume, in order to provide convenient standards of measure for use by other stores of similar size and type in studying their own delivery situation.

Madge, With Baby Daughter, Awaits Son's Return

The accolade of motherhood. The promise of a successful "career."

These are the things which I, Madge Graham, have received within the last two months, and these which constitute the most serious problem I ever have had presented to me.

Can I reconcile them? Can I do justice to both? Must I turn over the care of my baby and my young son to some one else, or must I bid goodbye, forever, to the dream of all my life—that of being a successful playwright—which, in these last few months, has seemed to be near fruition?

If I am able to summon the strength and the executive ability to manage both motherhood and a career, will I have any time left to devote to my husband, brilliant, successful, lovable, yet so temperamental that he is not unlike "Peter Pan," and often needs more mothering and humoring than our small son, Junior?

BABY DAUGHTER

The questions hover over me like dark clouds. But there is never a hint of a cloud in the blue sky above me where the glowing August sun seems traveling swiftly toward the western horizon. It has been a perfect summer day, its heat tempered by the breezes which rarely fail us on eastern Long Island and I am resentful toward the questioning thoughts which will not let me alone, and so spoil its perfection.

For it has been a wonderful day in happiness as well as in weather conditions. My baby daughter is one month old today, and lies sleeping beside me among the snowy white cushions of her carriage, relieved only by the pink satin bows with which all mothers delight in decking the appointments of their girl babies. And at any minute now my small son who has not yet seen her will come home. I have not seen him since the early summer and only a mother who has been separated that long from an idolized child can understand the tremulous happiness with which I am awaiting his arrival.

There will be other dear ones in the joyous caravan, which in the guise of the Underwoods' big car will roll through the farmyard gates this afternoon. Lillian Underwood, the staunch friend, who was as near to me as the sister I never had, her winsome daughter, Marion Morton, her big bluff husband, Harry Underwood, the "Jonathan" to my husband's "David," and Roderick, youngest child of my husband's dead sister, whom, last Christmas we decided to keep and rear with Junior that our boy might have companionship of his own age, and the other lonely, orphaned little chap might have the home he needed.

A RELIABLE FRIEND

It was Lillian, who, with the never-failing thoughtfulness and the efficiency which is hers, planned the summer so that I should have the minimum of worry and the maximum of comfort for the ordeal through which I have just successfully passed.

"I wouldn't take a prize as a nurse maid," she said one day a few weeks before Marion returned from Whitney Hall, "but if, with Marion's help and Harry on week-ends, I can't keep Junior and Roderick from tumbling into mill ponds or getting poison ivy I'll sign an acknowledgement of incompetent senility before a notary.

"Of course, Marion is wild to spend the summer near Carolyn Brixton," she went on, "and Harry has promised her that we will take a place within motoring distance of the one the Brixtons have leased for every year until Ronald graduates from Yale. It's a perfectly charming place, Helena writes me, and she'd like to have us as neighbors, but I prefer to be a bit further off. I'm getting a bit fed up on this 'roomie' business. I hear nothing, it seems to me, but 'my roomie' says this and that all the time Marion is home."

LEFT LEGACY

Her voice was as near petulance as Lillian could achieve and I choked back the retort that it was not Carolyn the "roomie" which had brought that tone to her voice, but Ronald the "roomie's" brother, whose devotion to Marion is so patent to everybody and so secretly irritating to Lillian. She never has been able to conquer wholly her first unreasonable resentment against the manly, lovable youth although I think she sincerely likes him and prefers him to any other possible suitor for her idolized child's affections.

"I want more hills than Helena has anyway," she said, "and we've found something that's a pretty fair imitation of mountains. Of course, they're not the Catskills, but—"

She stopped abruptly and I well knew the reason. Not for years, I guessed, could she bear to go back to the Catskills where Robert Savarin, famous artist, had lived and loved her so royally, and in the later years so hopelessly. I knew that Lillian's love for her husband was beautiful and complete, but I also knew that she never could forget the pitiful scene of last Christmas time, when dying Robert Savarin had taken his last farewell of her, secretly leaving her a handsome legacy in my name.

I had hastened to change the subject, and to voice my relief at her generous plan for the two restless small boys.

It is so peaceful upon this veranda with my favorite vista of fields, meadow and woodland dipping down, down, to the distant ocean, that even the problems left unsolved from the Christmas season seem of minor importance, though they creep through my mind furtively as if ashamed of being in evidence at all upon this wonderful day.

Jack Leslie—no sign of the presence of the cabaret dancer, so determined in his enmity to Noel and Mary, has come to us since the time of the attack he instigated upon Noel.

"You can't tell me!" Lillian had sputtered only a few days before she left for the Connecticut hills, that Phil Veritzen doesn't know where the capering cockroach is. Well, there's one comfort. It's probably costing old Phil a nice little sum in blackmail to keep Leslie out of the way unless he has some inside dope on the lad which will keep him quiet. Of course, Harry had and Hugh had but you can't very well go to the greatest theatrical producer of the day and say: 'See here, you this and that, we're shoutin' sure you hired Leslie to get Mary into some discreditable scrape, but didn't anticipate his attack on Noel.' But that's one of the little items that worked in your favor when you fought the battle of the century with Phil."

WORKS ON PLAY

I shivered now, despite the heat, as I had done at her reminder of that Christmas night when I had pleaded the cause of my employer's son and Dicky's gifted niece.

But I had no need to shiver now at any memory of Philip Veritzen. I reminded myself. Whatever Lillian had said to him, and I guessed that she had said much, his attitude ever since that night had been impeccable. He had accepted, through Lillian, my resignation from his employ, had sent word to me that he still held the opinion that I "would write a play, and a good one," and asked to have first chance at it when I should have finished it.

Such an opinion from so great an authority had made even Dicky complaisant toward the heady delightful task which had occupied my time since Christmas. With the duplicate of Philip Veritzen's famous miniature theater before me, I had worked over a play the idea of which had been with me for many years. I had completed the first two acts in the late spring and sent them, through Lillian, to my former employer who I had not seen since that fateful Christmas night—and he had been really enthusiastic over them. But when I should write the other two acts I did not know. Just now my heart and soul were too much absorbed in the mite of humanity sleeping beside me to think of anything else. Later I knew, subsconciously, I should have to reckon with Edith Fairfax's enmity, born of her love for Dicky.

UNEASINESS

My uneasiness over Marion's confidences to her "roomie" over the mysterious box with its secret compartment entrusted to her by her dying grandmother, was also dormant but not dead, for it was a confidence dangerous in my eyes, because of my mistrust of Carolyn Brixton's stepfather, Samuel Brixton, and of his half-brother, Charles Owen, whom I suspected of some plot against the problematical inheritance of the young daughter of Samuel Brixton's dead business partner.

Later on, I realized fearfully the question of Katherine Bicket's leaving me would have to be faced. I could not expect my little kinswoman to spend the rest of her life in taking care of my children, leaving me free to pursue whatever career I chose. I knew that she had received but one letter from her husband, my brother-cousin, now in the wilds of South Africa, during the year just past, and that constantly with her was the shadow of the woman, the sister of one of Jack's associates, who was sharing that adventurous expedition. But her letters from Hal Meredith, famous alienist, sweetheart of her first youth and faithful, waiting adorer, were steadily increasing in frequency and, I guessed, in disturbance of her peace of mind.

And Hugh—Hugh Grantland, the most steadfast friend I ever have known, from whom no one had heard since his sudden and mysterious disappearance into China—I know that not forever can I put aside my anxiety and my grief for him. But today there is room for nothing in my heart but joy over the well-being of my baby girl, and the imminent return of my idolized small son, tinged with the mother's eternal question: What will be his reaction to the new baby?

Women More Sensitive to Great Disparity in Years Than Men—Fay King

By FAY KING

It is not unusual for a young man to be interested in a woman much older.

But in most cases if she accepts his friendship she keeps it platonic and tries to be a good influence.

Women are much more sensitive to a great disparity in years, and that is why there are fewer old women who will marry young men than there are old men who will marry young girls.

Women believe in romance at its best. Which is when two young persons fall in love and start life together.

When age marries youth it is too often, not love, but an unfair advantage taken of youth's sympathy, ambition, obligation, or greed.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- Love That Comes Unbidden Is Not Stolen -:- By SALLY MARTIN

She introduced her Girl Friend to her Boy Friend—

Result?

A wedding—but not for her.

Ever run on a snag like that? Chances are you have, if you don't live on a desert island.... and like as not you were just as mad as Jane is, when it happened.

"Dearest Sally:

"Many people come to you for advice, but I am not doing that. I merely want you to tell my dearest pal something. I want her to read it. Once she was everything a girl friend could want—pal, companion and adviser. But she turned out to be an enemy—an ungrateful thief, and everything that goes with it.

TOOK BOY FRIEND

"From early childhood we grew up together. We shared each other's dreams, ideas and ambitions. Her joys were my joys, her sorrows were my sorrows—and mine were hers.

"Then I fell in love—and he fell in love with me. Nothing could separate us. He and I were ready to walk up the aisle together. I was so happy! Then he met her. And soon she drifted away from me. I was alone. There was nobody I could turn to, but I didn't give up—then. But now! Next week they are going to the altar—she as his bride instead of me.

"People are saying 'poor Jane! How unhappy she must be!' But I am not, though I hate her! I try to think perhaps she couldn't get any other man. Perhaps she hadn't spunk enough to do so—therefore she had to take mine—she had to take her pal's boy friend.

"Perhaps she couldn't get any other fellow, but it seems to me that, if she knew her onions, she could have gotten a man for herself, and not stolen mine. But no. She had to rob me.

CRUEL EXPERIENCE

"She must be the lowest thing on earth, to steal her own dear pal's boy friend, and be happy.

"Please don't sympathize with me. I don't need it. Only please say a few words, so that I can be brave, and face this yellow thing that has been put up to me. I think I have courage and spunk to go through with it all, because I've never been untrue or unfair to her. And now I am even wishing that she may see this, and know that I am trying to wish her happiness and plenty of luck in her new life.

"Perhaps many girls have faced this cruel experience, but to me it is all new, and I can hardly realize what it is all about. I need a few encouraging words from you, Sally, so I can keep my head through it all. "JANE."

Yes, I know, little girl. It's pretty hard to take, and I'm sorry. And I do want to help you—but I can't help you by encouraging you to see this thing all crooked.

You've adopted the usual foolish attitude. You think your Girl Friend was a deliberate traitor—you think your Boy Friend was stolen. You're trying to comfort your hurt heart by saying these things over and over to yourself—but you'll only find it by facing the truth.

She didn't "steal" love from your life . . . and he wasn't "stolen." Love came to her, as it came to you . . . unbidden. It wasn't a criminal plot. It just happened. And the chances are that she went through hours of misery, thinking of you—longing to prevent your pain. But she couldn't shut that love out of her heart any more than you could shut it out of yours.

And the same was true of the man. She didn't steal him. He went to her. He went to her because she meant something to him that you didn't. It hurts to read that—I know.

But thank God that you discovered the truth about each other before you were married. This discovery of your unfitness for each other means a little pain now. But it would have meant a lifelong tragedy if it happened after marriage.

So be brave, little girl. Face facts squarely. Then go to these two, and wish them happiness, in spite of your hurt. Tell them that you understand and wish them joy.

Go out and tackle life again. It will be dull business for a while, but if you have the courage, life will seem a greater adventure than it ever did before. And some day the wiser, gentler YOU will find a new love that will make that old hurt fade to a harmless shadow.

Household Hints

Never get so curious that you feel you must see what is inside the golf ball and then cut into it. Frequently the contents are found to be of a strong alkaline substance and may contain zinc or calcium chloride or barium sulphate, and being inclosed in a machine-wound rubber ribbon, under great pressure, the contents are apt to escape when the ball is punctured with sufficient force to strike the ceiling of a room 10 feet high.

If your table silver is scratched buy a small amount of putty powder at a chemist's and put it into a saucer with enough olive oil to make a paste. Rub this paste on to the silver with a soft rag, then polish with a chamois and the scratches will no longer be seen.

Some people do not like whipped cream and others find it prohibitively expensive for the daily table. A pleasant alternative in either case is to add a sliced banana to the white of one egg, then beat it until stiff. The banana will entirely dissolve and the egg thus fluffed and flavored may be used on desserts ordinarily requiring whipped cream.

Before putting down your winter rugs lay a thick covering of old newspapers on the floor. This will not only make your rugs look better, but will prove a protection for them, causing them to wear better and acting as a foil for moths.

Eggs, no matter how fresh, will not whip nicely if warm. Always place them in cold water before breaking. Let them remain in the water until thoroughly chilled and keep the whites on ice or in a cold place until ready to beat.

Try to finish the neck of a frock as soon as possible, so that in trying it on for fittings, the neck line is not stretched out of shape. Nothing looks quite so home made as a poor neck line.

If in doubt as to whether the table for the large dinner party is going to be comfortably spaced, allow 20 inches space for each person when setting the table. It is a good rule to abide by.

When making plans for the spring garden, choose perennials rather than annuals so that you have a foundation for the next year.

Quilted pads should be bought several inches larger than the table on which they are to be used. Otherwise, when they are washed they will shrink to a smaller size than the top.

Scald new brooms in hot suds to toughen the straws.

SEES EDGE FOR NATIONAL IN HITTING

THE CLAIM HAS long been made that the American League packs greater hitting power than the National, particularly this year, when a less drastic change in the ball caused the averages of the leading hitters in the younger organization to dwarf the marks of the top clouters in the parent body. But according to Dan Howley, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, the assertion is all wrong. He insists that there are more good hitters in the National than in the American.

Dan Howley

Howley is qualified to offer testimony on both sides of the argument, as prior to his coming into the National League he served in the American as player, coach and manager. He admits that if the comparison is confined to a few men the American may be conceded to have the greater swatters, but contends that when it comes down to a question of numbers, or to the clouting strength of each league as a whole, the senior major girdle surpasses the junior circuit.

IN DISCUSSING THE question with Gordon Mackay, Howley asserted that after passing the A's, the Senators and the Yankees a pitcher in the American League has little to fear and finds the going comparatively soft, whereas every club in the National carries some real hitters.

"Our league has more good hitters than the American," Howley declared. "We have eight clubs on which you'll find dangerous batsmen. There are only three in the other league. When you pass the A's, Senators and Yanks, what have you? Nothing. Our hitters are not only greater in number, but they are spread over more ground. A pitcher will find some bloke hard to get out on any club he faces."

IN THE EARLY spring there appeared to be not a chance in a million that the Reds would ever win as many games as the Pirates, but today found the once derided Ohioans on even terms with the locals in the victory column, and it was only because they had played four more contests than the Bucs and lost them that the Howleys were still in last place.

At their present rate of downward progress, the Pirates may soon wipe out the slight margin that separates them from the cellar. While the Reds broke even in their last 30 games the Rovers won only 6 of their last 25 encounters up to today. It's not the Pirates' fault that they're not in the basement already.

THAT BASEBALL LIGHTNING may strike from the direction least expected never was more clearly demonstrated than when the lowly Browns followed up their first two victories over the A's by beating the world champions twice in one afternoon, breaking George Earnshaw's winning streak at 12 straight, and making it four in a row over the Macks, the first time this season the latter have lost that many games in succession. Earnshaw had not been defeated since the Yankees took him on April 20. As a result of the St. Louis debacle, the pennant lead of the A's, beaten in five of their last six games, has been cut to a single box score. The Senators have caught up with them in the "won" column and are trailing only by reason of having suffered two more defeats.

Bill Killefer

WHEN THE MACKMEN invaded St. Louis for the disastrous series which ended yesterday, Bill Killefer's club was in last place and had just staggered to its feet again after a losing streak in which it dropped eight straight games. Yet the Browns turned around and walloped the worldbeaters four times in succession, when the Macks had not been beaten twice in a row in a stretch of 51 games. That's how much baseball dope is worth.

In giving the Senators so much help in their fight to overtake the A's, the Brownies are in a sense evening up for what they did last year. For the Killefers aided the Macks not a little in 1930. They dropped 16 out of 22 games to the A's, but took 12 out of 22 from Washington, being the only club to win the season's series from the Johnsons. This season they have held the Macks to an even break in 10 games, but have taken one out of eight from Washington.

OUTSIDE OF KNOCKING three home runs and driving in another tally on Wednesday in a game which the Cards won, 4 to 2, and stealing home yesterday in a tilt which the Redbirds captured 1 to 0, George Watkins had nothing to do with the last two victories scored by the National League leaders.

That's the second 1-to-0 decision bagged by the Cards in a space of five days, incidentally, showing again how things break for a winner. There's no disputing the fact that a pitcher who blanks his opponents deserves to win, but a club is lucky to get shutout pitching in a game in which it makes only one run itself.

FOR SUCCESSFUL COMEBACKS and surprising victories when rated as having little or no chance to escape defeat, Billy Petrolle, who knocked out Justo Suarez in the ninth round of their New York bout last night, with the betting odds and the weight of so-called expert opinion against him, has won a place all his own in the fistic records. Badly beaten by King Tut two years ago and then losing to such a low rater as Jackie Purvis, Petrolle was adjudged all washed up, but he turned in and gave Tony Canzoneri an unexpected pasting.

DEFEATED BY JACK (Kid) Berg, Billy looked soft for Jimmy McLarnin, only to give the latter a beating in their first meeting. Now, again considered done after a severe lacing at McLarnin's hands in a second bout, he spills the dope once more by stopping the Argentine battler, who had looked like a certain coming champion.

Petrolle's avowed intention of going after the lightweight championship had not been taken seriously, but after what he accomplished last night, on top of his previous comebacks, there are many ring followers who will not be surprised at anything he may do.

IN THE OPINION of the average golf follower, the possibility that the chances of Great Britain's team in the Ryder Cup matches, starting today in Columbus, O., may be harmfully affected by the new ball and the climate has been greatly overplayed.

Walter Hagen

American golfers have competed under equally unfamiliar conditions when playing in the British Isles, at least in so far as the climate was concerned—the chill winds of North Scotland, for instance—but the fact that they have won the British open 10 times in the last 11 years would appear to indicate that their form was not impaired.

WHAT HAS HELD good on one side ought to hold good on the other, so it is a fair assumption that if Capt. Walter Hagen and his mates are victorious in Columbus it will be because the United States has the better team and not because the climate or the ball has hurt the visitors. For that matter, the new ball is disliked just as greatly by some of the American players, notably Hagen, Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, as by the British, and it has affected their games to an equal extent. The principal factor deciding the Ryder Cup tussle will be the comparative strength of the teams and nothing else. And from that angle the American team appears to have a sufficient edge on paper to warrant the confidence that the trophy lost in Moortown, England, in the second match of the series two years ago will be in Uncle Sam's possession again tomorrow night.

Sarazen and Farrell started back at a pace as scorching as the weather, taking three holes in a row to go 4 up at the thirteenth.

HAGEN-SHUTE STAR

Capt. Walter Hagen and Densmore Shute whirled around the first nine holes with a dazzling 34, two under par, to gain a commanding edge over George Duncan and Arthur Havers, 5 up. They lost only one hole of the nine—the seventh—winning six and halving the third and fifth.

Fully 1,500 spectators galloped after this feature match, eager to watch the Hagen-Duncan duel, even though it meant they hit only alternate shots. The cards:

Leo Diegel and Al Espinosa rallied to reach the turn all square with their British rivals, Abe Mitchell and Fred Robson. The American pair captured the seventh and ninth holes to wipe out the early lead of the invaders. The cards:

Par out ... 4 4 4 3 4 5 4 5 3—36

COX-BURKE LEAD

Wiffy Cox and Billie Burke, the Eastern pair making their bow in Ryder Cup play, shot the first nine in even par, 36, to gain a margin of 2 up over the British combination of Ernest Whitcombe and Syd Easterbrook. The cards:

The Americans thus held the edge in three of the four matches after the first nine holes.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE LION IN DOGE'S PALACE—For 500 years Venice was an aristocratic republic with a Doge as its nominal head. The real power in the state, however, was exercised by the Council of Ten, a formidable body of men whose acts were as arbitrary and rapidly executed as they were secret. The lion I sketched was located in the corner of the Doge's Palace. Into its maw would be deposited the secret denunciations by the state's spies and secret agents. As the denunciations reached the Council of Ten by an underground passage, the accused were invariably seized and removed after a secret trial. The victims never learned the sentence meted out to them by this secret tribunal. The number of condemned victims is estimated at 100,000. As a rule, they never were heard from again. This "man-eater," in the eyes of the Venitians, was more formidable and voracious than any beast in history.

EDDIE JACOBS ELIMINATED

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 26.—(AP.)—Finish of the quarter final round of the national intercollegiate tennis singles championship yesterday found one easterner, a far westerner, a southerner, and one from the southwest surviving. Two top seeded players fell in the round.

Bruce Barnes, University of Texas, seeded No. 5, was the southwesterner to ride through by virtue of his victory over Bryant Grant, Jr., of the University of North Carolina, top seeded player No. 10, in national ranking, and national clay court championships, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.

The easterner is David Jones, of Columbia University, eastern intercollegiate champion. He triumphed over Eddie Jacobs, of Pittsburgh, who was second in the seeding, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

Keith Gledhill, of Stanford University, representing the Far West, eliminated R. M. Ryan, captain of the Yale tennis team, in two sets, 6-3, 7-5.

Burwell, of the University of the South, defeated Wilbur (Junior) Coen, of Kansas University, fourth seeded in the tourney. The scores were 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

U. S. BOATS WIN, LOSE

LARGS, Scotland, June 26.—(AP.)—American yachts won and lost today in the first day of the fortnight regatta on the Clyde. Johnston De Forest's eight meter Priscilla III finished fourth in her class. The Lucie, however, won her race in the six-meter class.

MEETS CALLED OFF

The annual track and field meets at Schenley and Highland parks, held on Independence Day by the City of Pittsburgh, have been called off.

Nats Cut Lead Of Macks to One Game

Associated Press.

The sudden rejuvenation of the St. Louis Browns and the steady play of the Washington Senators in the American League were combined to reduce Philadelphia's lead to a single game yesterday. The Browns took two games from the Athletics, winning the first 6 to 5 and the second 8 to 5.

A homer by Red Kress with two on helped break George Earnshaw's winning streak after 12 games in the first contest, while heavy hitting behind Walter Stewart turned the trick in the second.

The Senators, held to four hits by Vic Sorrell, defeated Detroit 4 to 3. Sorrell gave seven walks and Spencer followed them with three hits to drive in all the Senator runs.

KEPLER, DUNLAP GOLF LEADERS

OLYMPIA FIELDS COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP.)—Bob Kepler, easy swinging Ohio State golfer, had his school mate, John Florio, 3 down at the ninth hole of their 36-hole semi-final match in the National Intercollegiate golf tournament today.

George Dunlap, Princeton's defending champion, stood 2 up to Tommy Aycock, of Yale, the 1929 titleholder, at the turn of the morning round. He had been 4 up after seven holes, but lost the 445-yard ninth.

BUCS TO LOSE JOE DEVINE

The Pittsburgh baseball club probably is about to lose the services of one of the most successful scouts in the business in the person of Joe Devine, for eight years ivory hunter for the Pirates on the Pacific Coast.

Joe Devine

In a letter to Buccaneer headquarters, Devine announced that the managership of the Mission club, of San Francisco, in the Pacific Coast League, had been offered to him, but that in view of his long and pleasant connection of the Pittsburgh club he had deferred making a change and would be guided by the advice of President Barney Dreyfuss.

Treasurer W. E. Benswanger relayed Devine's message to President Dreyfuss, who still is in the East, and today received word from the Pirate owner to the effect that as a reward for Joe's long and faithful service permission had been wired to the scout to accept the managerial proposal if he wished to do so.

Negotiations are now in progress between Devine and the owners of the Mission club, and it is expecetd that Joe will sign to pilot the team. He will succeed George Burns, former American League first baseman, who took the place of Wade Killefer this year.

Devine has sent up many players of ability to the Piraets, including Paul Waner, Remy Kremer, Larry French, Joe Cronin, Dick Bartell, Gus Suhr, Hal Rhyne, Harry Gesiberger and others. He also recommended Lloyd Waner when the latter was signed as a free agent.

MARKS WINS SCHOOL TITLE

GREENWICH, Conn., June 26.—(AP.)—Wilson Marks, of Kiski School, Saltsburg, Pa., won the twentieth annual eastern interscholastic golf championship yesterday by defeating Charles Mayo, Jr., of St. Paul's School, 1 up at the twentieth hole in the final round of the tournament played at the Greenwich Country Club.

Mayo was 4 down with four to go after 14 holes and then won four holes in a row to square the match. The nineteenth was halved in fours but at the twentieth found a trap off the tee, chipped out about three feet from the cup and missed his putt to give Marks hole and match.

Kiski won the team championship with New Utrecht second, Parien third and St. Paul's fourth. Kiski was represented by Billy Marks, captain; Bill Mercer, of Avalon; George Kinder, of Bridgeport, O., and Charles Newman, of Fort Washington, L. I.

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—Convinced beyond doubt that there is no cure from within for the Pirate infield, Manager Jewel Ens this morning stated he considered his most drastic move of the season for this afternoon's game with the Phillies. He said he might assign the clever Lloyd Waner to the second base position.

Ens' patience is completely exhausted in two phases of the Buccos' play—the terrible slump of his hitters and the pitiful play at the keystone sack. Jewel has not quit on George Grantham as a big leaguer, but he and many other members of the team are sure that Grantham is not intended for second base, his misplays having much to do with the repeated setbacks handed the team.

MAY BENCH SUHR

In the event that Ens goes through with his new idea, Grantham would move to first base and Suhr would be benched again. Comorosky would move to the center patrol and either Jim Mosolf or Fred Bennett would be assigned to the left field berth. Suhr's batting makes Ens moan.

Ens has considered the Lloyd Waner shift from several angles. When Lloyd joined the Pirates at Paso Robles in the spring of 1927 he was stationed at second base. In a number of camp games he played like a star, but Manager Donie Bush finally decided that the little fellow would be a better bet in the outfield so Lloyd was placed in left field.

Ens saw and studied Brother Lloyd in those games of four years ago and now considers bringing him into the first defense.

"Something has to be done," said the unfortunate leader. "Our infield play is not of the major league brand. I am not especially eager to change Lloyd into an infielder temporarily, but if he can come in and make the plays at second something will be accomplished for the present."

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

DETROIT, June 26.—I often thresh around in my one-piece pajamas, just the top part in the warm summer weather, and wonder how the big leagues scout for umpires in the minors. So far as I can see a guy has to have good feet to stand up on through a game, good arms so he can keep 'em folded for hours at a time, good teeth for chawing tobacco, a strong thumb so he can jerk out base runners and dependable whisk broom for keeping home plate nice and tidy, and they grab him and sign him up. I guess his eyesight don't count at all, from the decisions we've been getting lately.

VAN RYN DEFEATS BOUSSUS AT WIMBLEDON

Hearst Junior Golf Tourney Pairings to Be Announced Sunday

SHIELDS, WOOD IMPRESSIVE IN WINS

WIMBLEDON STADIUM, Eng., June 26.—(AP.)—John Van Ryn, American Davis Cup player, today defeated Christian Boussus, young French star, in the fourth round of the Wimbledon tennis championships, winning easily in four sets, 6-2, 1-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Van Ryn and the slender Frenchman fought it out largely on the base lines. Boussus winning his only set when he went to the net in the second to outvolley the American.

G. P. Hughes, of Great Britian, followed Van Ryn into the quarter-finals with a 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3 victory over Nigel Sharpe, English conqueror of Henri Cochet in the first round.

SHIELDS DOWNS OLLIFF

Frank X. Shields, America's No. 1 in the Wimbledon championships, advanced to the quarter final round with a straight set victory over Jesse S. Olliff, of England, 6-2, 6-0, 6-2.

Olliff met a veritable whirlwind in Shields, the American's superiority in every phase of the game being apparent and the issue was never in doubt after the first few games of the first set.

The Englishman tried to keep the ball away from Shields' deadly backhand, but without much success.

As an added torture Shields burned his second service ball over the net almost as fast as he did his first, his speedy second service being the most devastating weapon Wimbledon probably ever saw.

WOOD ADVANCES

Sidney B. Wood, Jr., followed his Davis Cup partners into the quarter-final round with a four-set victory over C. E. Malfroy, of New Zealand, 6-3, 10-12, 10-8, 6-4.

After a bitter contest in the second and third sets, which went 22 and 18 games, respectively, Wood won rather easily in the fourth and match set.

Miss Marjorie Sachs, of Boston, was eliminated from doubles play with her partner, Miss Jedrzejowska, by Mrs. J. B. Pittman and Joan Ridley, of England, 6-2, 6-3.

Doubles play started with Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, the French veterans, advancing to the third round at the expense of their fellow countrymen, Flury and Landau, 6-0, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

Charley Baxter vs. Windy Myers, 10 rounds, Louisville, Ky.

Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, who makes his big-time debut as a main-bouter against Buck McTiernan in the 10-round main bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Wednesday night, has just signed a five-year contract with Ray Foutts, of East Liverpool, O., as his manager.

Teddy was 21 years old on Wednesday, and until then he did not have a contract with his pilot, who gave him his first professional fight, as matchmaker at the Junction Park arena, New Brighton, a few summers ago. The bout with McTiernan will mark Ted's forty-fourth start for money, and he has yet to lose an official decision.

Between Rounds

Jackie Rodgers claims he underrated Chico Cisneros when he bested him in Cleveland a few months ago and did not take the six-round match seriously, and, as a result, was easy picking for the Arizonian, whom he meets in a return battle in the Meyers Bowl next Monday night. He will go to the limit for he has been working hard to prime himself and says he is gunning for a revenge knockout victory.

Both the Meyers Bowl and Hickey Park are planning Willie Davies' services in his next bout. The Bowl avers it has a Davies-Mose Botch battle arranged for July 6, while the Millvale arena is announcing a Davies-Jimmy Thomas return shindy for July 9, and it is against the rules for any boxer to appear in two main bouts in this state without having at least five days intervene between the contests.

Bud Gorman has been substituted for Jack Renault as Primo Carnera's next pushover, in Toronto, next Tuesday night.

Andy Martin, Boston featherweight, a big favorite here, makes his first appearance in Philadelphia when he fares Matty White, of that city, in one of four 10-round bouts at the Arena next Monday night. Maxie Rosenbloom and Billy Jones are in the windup, a non-title affair. Steve Smith meets Tony Morgano and Pete Latzo engages Al Ettore in other battles.

Jimmy Guthrie, of Akron, will box Lonnie Bowcen, of Cincinnati, in the 10-round main bout at East Liverpool, O., next Tuesday night. Tony Rastino and Cliff Cassidy are in the six-round semi-final.

WORKMEN PUT FINISHING TOUCHES ON TRAPS AROUND SECOND GREEN OF NEW COUNTY LINKS

The first nine holes of the North Park county links were thrown open for play with fitting ceremonies this afternoon, giving the devotees of the sport here their third public course, the city layout in Schenley Park having been in use for years while the twin county course in South Park has been in play only since the early part of this season.

GOODMAN WINS TAME BOUT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

One fighter who wouldn't fight and another who couldn't, under the circumstances, put on a messy windup at Hickey Park, Millvale, last night. It was the old story of two out-of-town boxers appearing in a listless main bout.

Joey Goodman, Clevelander, won the decision of the two judges at the finish, while the referee, Al Grayber, voted for a draw because of Goodman's stalling tactics and evident "carrying" of his opponent. The arbiter warned Joey a number of times to open up and fight his fight and once halted the bout entirely to issue a warning and got a dirty look from Goodman at the finish of the round for his pains. Instead of penalizing the boxer with a draw vote, he would have been justified in disqualifying him and ordering his money held up.

Joey acted throughout as if he were under a pull. He dallied through the early rounds, alternately punching hard and going on the defensive. In the seventh, he condescended to heed the demand to fight and belted poor Kiser all around the ring with short punches to the head and body, and then he went back on the defensive and let Ray win the next round on aggressiveness.

BELL SAVES KISER

Goodman barely won the ninth round, in which Kiser's left eye became badly puffed, and then, in the last minute of the final round, he put on a flurry such as it appeared he could have flashed at any time in the fight and punched Kiser dizzy and finally knocked him groggily to the floor, where the bell saved him at the count of four.

It was Kiser's second successive decisive defeat here, the first having been by Jack (Kid) Berg, and he should be through as a headliner locally. He is just a tough kid who can take a punching. As for Goodman, he did not enhance his prestige by the tame exhibition he gave.

Kiser weighed 136¾ pounds and Goodman 140½ at 3 p. m.

FANS PROTEST VERDICT

The fans set up a terrific roar over the decision of one judge and the referee in favor of Jimmy Guthrie, of Akron, 165½, over Billy Bruns, of Erie, 165¼, in the eight-round semi-final, but it happened that the verdict was fair. Guthrie suffered a badly bruised left eye midway in the battle, and, beginning with the sixth round, went on the defensive to protect the optic, enabling Bruns to carry that round and the next one by large margins, after having been on a bicycle up to that time and having held his own in only two of the first five rounds. And then Guthrie, short and chunky, came back to clinch matters by forcing the fight with his rangy foe through the final round.

Judge Frank Ferris voted for Bruns, but Judge Frank Hogan and Referee Jack Henderson rightly found for Guthrie on a basis of having won four rounds against two by his opponent, with two even.

SPIEGEL HELD TO DRAW

Joey Spiegel, of Uniontown, 140½, did too much posing in the six-round second bout with Matty Oldach, of Erie, 139, and had to be satisfied with a referee's draw after the judges had disagreed, with Hogan voting for Spiegel and Ferris for a dead heat. Spiegel did the harder punching and scored the only knockdown, for a count of nine in the final round, and really had an edge, but he paid the penalty for boxing like a prima donna in the early stages and resorting to a lot of roughing inside at the finish.

Referee Jack Henderson stopped the opening bout, between Carl Cesko, of Uniontown, 158¼, and Anson Green, Negro, of Homestead, 153½, in the fifth round as Cesko got up from a count of nine from a right uppercut following a grueling give-and-take battle. The loser also had a slashed right eye and was in a bad way.

Rosenbloom agreed and Slattery sent his wire of acceptance last night.

N. PARK LINKS OPENED

BULLETIN.

Jimmy McFarland, a brother of Bernie McFarland, of Schenley, was named pro at North County Park today by Director Paul B. Riis.

High officials of Allegheny County and public links stars of renown sloshed over soggy fairways and through waterlogged traps in formally opening the North Park golf course this afternoon. As a result of the violent storm of last night the dedicating of the new layout was not a particularly pleasant task. Pine Creek, which meanders through the course, overflowed its banks and deposited debris on the fairways. Wires blown from telephone poles were added hazards.

Addresses by Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the board of County Commissioners, and John Jay Burke, manager of the city office of the parks, marked the opening of the dedication program, after which Armstrong, Commissioners E. V. Babcock and C. C. McGovern and Director of County Parks Paul B. Riis teed off in the order named.

Only nine holes of the North Park layout were opened today. The second nine holes will not be available for play until late in August.

CADDIE TEAMS ENTERED BY 30 CLUBS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

No less than 30 country clubs have entefed teams in the fourth annual William Randolph Hearst junior amateur golf tournament, which is to be held next Tuesday, at Schenley Park, under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. And, with the last flow of entries coming with today's mails, it is expected that several other clubs will have lads in the field before the lists finally are tabulated.

All entrants in the tournament are requested to read the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, for the pairings and starting times are to be announced on that day. No other notification will be given any of the contenders.

If you have sent in an entry blank and do not find it among those listed, communicate immediately with the Golf Tournament Editor and find out the reason you were not entered.

MORE TEAMS ENTER

Aside from the defending club caddie team champion, Schenley Park, and a field of 150 competing at Alcoma, in that test, five clubs entered the fight for the caddie team plaque yesterday.

Frank Bruno, caddiemaster at Nemacolin, qualified his team—and it included three members of the team that last year went into the W. P. G. A. caddie championship and grabbed the gonfalon. The first team includes John Zamiska, William Di Nardo, Iris Ross and Camille Ross, and the second group is made up of Leo Di Nardo, Steve Mihalek, Joe Malik, and Joe Yemiolo. Steve Sysadafora also qualified, but will be unable to play in the competition because he is to attend the citizens military training camp at Fort Washington, Md. The highest score was an 87.

McDONALD TEAM SET

CARDS, SAINTS MEET TODAY

By TOM BIRKS

The outstanding battle of the Steel City League will be played at Leslie Park this evening when the East End Cardinals and the St. Elizabeth nines battle for the first-half title. Two weeks ago, the teams staged a thriller that went into an extra inning to finish in a 2-2 deadlock.

The Cards must win this game to stay in the race. The Saints have only lost one game, while the Cards have dropped two.

RELIANCE ON SPOT

In the West Penn League, Reliance Life should attract a large crowd to Garfield Park for the game with the Martin Club. Stan Freizel and the Hill boys feel that they are going to stop the pennant rush of the Miller aggregation.

Reliance cannot afford to lose this game. With the Homestead Aces still out in front, another defeat practically will give the Aces the first-half title.

One game in the City League finds Dormont clashing with the North Side Buicks at Pleasant Valley. Johnny Dunsky has been complaining the last few days that the attendance has been falling off. Should the Buicks stop Dormont, it certainly should get the crowds back.

HOMEWOOD WALLOPED

Last evening was a very unpropitious one for some of the elite of the sandlots. No fewer than three of the leading nines met defeat, one—Homewood—taking a very sound walloping.

J. L. Thomas put on the power to crush Homewood in the City League, 20 to 3. Dormont added a full game to its lead by defeating the N. S. Civics, 13 to 4. Book Shoe barely nosed out the Buicks, 9 to 8.

THOMPSON ILL, BOUT OFF

BOSTON, June 26.—(AP.)—The non-title bout between young Jack Thompson, welterweight champion, and Lou Brouillard, of Worcester, scheduled for next Thursday, was canceled yesterday by the Boston Garden. Matchmaker Billy Ames said the titleholder was ill in Chicago.

STOCKS CLIMB BACK TO HIGH LEVELS

Trading Slackens, But List Maintains Upward Trend; All Steel Shares Strong

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.) Share prices in the New York market climbed back to the best levels of the recovery in more sober trading today, as reports from both Paris and Washington remained optimistic over the prospect of an early accord on war debts.

Trading slackened considerably but the upward trend of prices was well maintained, as it was in the London and Paris markets. The mild reaction late yesterday only attracted fresh buying and the list generally soon pushed up to around the best levels touched in yesterday's active trading.

Steels were particularly strong. Although the industry expects several more weeks of extreme dullness, unconfirmable rumors of a new accord in the Bethlehem-Youngstown merger situation helped these issues generally. Youngstown gained more than 7 points, and advances of 2 to 4 were recorded by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic and National.

Commodity prices continued to work higher in the main. Bradstreet's weekly food index recorded the first advance since April 2. Some observers express the opinion that prices hold the key to recovery, and that an upturn sustained for any length of time will bring a flood of buying as depleted inventories are replenished, and idle investment funds at last seek employment. The bond market continued to work higher.

The weekly statements showed another gain in the nation's monetary gold stock of $22,000,000 to a new record total of $4,915,000,000. This is roughly one-half of the world's monetary gold and several economists feel that the United States must find means of making this enormous hoard useful to the rest of the world, if world economic conditions are to be restored.

The weekly mercantile reviews stressed the stimulating effects of the war debt proposal upon commodity markets, and indicate that retail trade was well maintained with warm weather helping the movement of vacation goods. Little aggregate change in general trade was noted, however.

Credit conditions at the end of the week were slightly easier, with some call money offered below the official rate of 1½ per cent. The weekly bank statements showed that the Federal Reserve system was still maintaining its aggressive easy money policy by purchasing bills and government securities.

Stock Exchange Topics

National Cash Register Earnings Improved in Second Quarter

The general belief in responsible quarters is that earnings of National Cash Register showed substantial improvement in the second quarter over the first three months. Because of this fact, there are many who believe that the $3 a share dividend on the A stock will be resumed at the September meeting of the board. The stock is cumulative and it is maintained that directors will desire to resume payments as soon as they are justified by earnings and the outlook.

Conditions in the agricultural districts have been mentioned often as affecting the business of International Harvester, and caused liquidation in the stock several months ago. Now, interests usually well informed contend that the company has prospects of obtaining important truck orders, as the management has expanded this field steadily. Good scale buying has taken place in the stock at times, particularly on reactions based on the outlook for truck orders and the strong financial position of the company. This buying is believed to have been of the long-term variety.

A substantial short interest still exists in du Pont. The stock was one of the targets which was pressed for sale by the bears from time to time. Many rumors of an unfavorable nature were circulated, all of them apparently without foundation. In some quarters, it is contended that there has been better than seasonal improvement in earnings because of a moderate increase in sales and operating economies. There is a tendency to make upward revisions in guesses as to earnings this year.

Coca-Cola is one of the companies which has passed through the severe depression period without material effect on earnings. Because of lower costs for some raw materials, the company has recorded continued improvement in net. Estimates now are that 1931, despite conditions in other lines, will show earnings somewhat in excess of the $11.15 a share reported for 1930.

The accumulation which was in evidence in Commercial Solvents in the past was based on the prediction that earnings for the second quarter would at least equal the 21 cents a share reported for the first three months. However, because of the anticipation of seasonal decline in the automobile business with the beginning of the summer, it is probable that third-quarter results will be somewhat less than those of the two preceding periods.

Combined operating results of the first 18 railroads reporting for May showed net operating income totaling $10,312,000, or roughly about 33.7 per cent under the total of $15,573,000 reported by the same roads for May, 1930. The earnings of the same roads for April had shown a drop of 26 per cent from the corresponding period a year ago. The gain over April this year was equivalent to about 15 per cent, whereas in May last year net operating income of the same carriers had exceeded the April figures by more than 27 per cent. Gross revenues of these same carriers last month ran 17.8 per cent under May of 1930.

Huge Potential Demand for Motor Cars

DETROIT, June 26.—(AP)—At a time when some 5,000,000 or more motor cars that are long overdue in the junk pile are being forced to give up their last ounce of endurance by motorists reluctant to invest in new cars, an unusually brisk business in the service departments of the different automobile companies would seem a logical conclusion.

It is one of the anomalies of the situation through which the industry has passed, however, that most of the service departments have felt the tightening of the purse strings just as much as the new car sales departments. Nevertheless there has been no falling off in the operation of motor cars. On the contrary, cheaper gasoline in many sections, ideal driving weather and the start of the vacation period have combined to increase the mileage record of all types of cars.

Out of this seemingly ambitious situation, automobile executives see only a constantly increasing accumulation of potential buying orders, which ultimately must be released. Automobiles, they say, have been wearing out during the last year and a half much faster than replacements have been made. The result, one executive said, must be that when business again approximates a normal condition, the automobile industry will face a tremendous demand for new cars.

Used Car Stocks Lower

WITH THIS WILL COME, too, other leaders believe, a further improvement in the used car situation. Distributors have been able to improve their used car inventories during the last few months by more conservative trade-in practices and by more careful handling of accounts. During the spring buying period finance companies also aided in the effort at general betterment by thorough investigation of the financial prospects of potential installment purchases. Manufacturing activity continues to taper off, and total output figures for June undoubtedly will show an appreciable drop over last month. In the retail division preparations are going forward for the handling of an increased demand for cars as the midsummer seasonal lull passes.

Sales Below Normal

TALK ABOUT THE HUGE number of obsolescent automobiles and the possibilities of their continued operation is heard in all quarters where the future prospects of the industry are discussed.

In support of their hopes for an upward curve of the sales graph within the next few weeks, retailers point out that purchasers of cars so far this year did not aggregate an approximately normal number. They are convinced that while some of the stowed-up buying may be withheld from the market until the new models are brought out in the latter part of the year, some of it must be released before that time by reason of necessity.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 26.—Led by foreign, stock privilege and industrial obligations the bond market continued to gain irregularly today. The market was somewhat more active.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows. 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

DAILY SHORT STORY

Financier Helps Daughter To Choose Husband

Fishing

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

Polly Mintrum was not exactly surrounded by young men, but there were five of them visible on the west terrace of the Mintrum estate on the North Shore when Mr. Mintrum alighted from his car.

He went up the front way while Jenks took the car around to the garage that housed four other Mintrum cars.

Wilson, the butler, gravely admitted Mr. Mintrum.

He usually went up to his private den upon reaching home but this time he went out to the library and sat at the reading desk by the French windows, open to admit the early spring air.

Wilson brought him the humidor and a cocktail. Mr. Mintrum opened the Wall Street edition of his evening paper, but he didn't read; he merely pretended to do so.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Addison Mintrum knew the true state of the market far better than the men who had made up the financial page—or as much of the market as interested him, which was quite a slice of it.

Mr. Mintrum was interested in Polly, his daughter.

Polly was twenty. She was handsome, vivacious and she was thinking of matrimony.

Polly didn't tell her adoring father that she was thinking a great deal of matrimony. She didn't have to. Addison Mintrum had not climbed up from a broker's messenger boy to a power in Wall street by being a fool. He would have been puzzled and worried if he thought that his daughter, or any man's daughter of 20, didn't think of matrimony.

POLLY'S SUITORS

The trouble was that Polly would come into a great deal of money, so much money that it was no wonder so many young men hovered about her whenever opportunity offered or they could make such an opportunity.

Mr. Mintrum sipped his cocktail, puffed at the cigar when Wilson held the lighter, and settled back with his paper, looking over the top out on the terrace.

The five young men were gathered about her. They were laughing, chatting, joking—and all trying to entertain Polly.

Mr. Mintrum knew these young men. Three of them he knew to be entirely out of the running. He knew this because Polly had told him as much.

Mr. Mintrum devoted his attention to the remaining two. These were Ryerson Fisher and Thornton Walder.

He did not know so very much about them. Fisher's father was a captain of industry. Young Fisher held a sort of honorary office in the corporation, but this did not seem to cut in on his play hours, which were twenty-four a day minus the few he devoted to sleep.

Young Walder specialized in real estate subdivisions. He evidently had capable men handling these enterprises, for he seemed to have plenty of leisure.

Mr. Mintrum tried to look at these two comely young men through his daughter's eyes. He knew that this was practically impossible. How can a man, even a father, know how a young woman regards a man?

GOING FISHING

And Polly had confided in him that both young men wanted her. This did not surprise him. He would have been surprised to find any young man who would not want her. The troublesome thing was that Polly didn't seem to know her own mind.

The time came for the young men to depart. Polly had Wilson come out with the wheeled wagon containing beverages.

They drank to her and got ready to depart.

Both Fisher and Walder came up across the terrace as though they were coming into the library. Mr. Mintrum remained motionless, staring into his paper, but they did not see him or come in. They had left their tennis rackets there on a swing hammock.

They were talking as they came up.

"We can't go with Jack," Fisher was saying.

"I explained," said Walder.

"That we were going fishing?"

"Surely."

"You didn't tell him we were going to Parkersville. I hope—he'd be sure to chuck his party and tag us."

"Be natural, Ry. I wouldn't tell my mother. We got that tip about opening the stream quite by accident. We should give it away."

They retrieved their tennis rackets, went back and chatted with Polly a moment and departed.

At dinner Mr. Mintrum said, "I'm going fishing over the week end."

"Something will come up, something will drop a point or go up a point and you'll hug the ticker tape, as you always do, Dad."

"Not this time. I need a rest, and I want to see if I can handle a dry fly the way I used to."

"You can handle anyone, or anything, Dad!"

Mr. Mintrum chuckled. He was pleased.

And so Mr. Addison Mintrum was driven the 90 miles to Parkersville. He was left at the humble home of Peter Blodgett. Peter had been Mr. Mintrum's gardener for years, until he retired to this farm in Parkersville to take it easy for the remainder of his days.

Twice before this, some seven years before, Mr. Mintrum had stopped at Peter's little home for a few days of fishing. Peter always welcomed him. Mr. Mintrum had never failed to send him a check for Christmas. He was welcomed this time.

APPEARANCE CHANGED

Mr. Mintrum had not shaved that morning. He did not shave the next day. Also, he removed his tortoise shell spectacles. He did not need them except for reading.

He put on a very ragged old sweater that belonged to Peter, a much patched pair of blue denim overalls, a torn old gray hat and was ready to start out.

No one would have recognized Mr. Addison Mintrum.

Mr. Mintrum adjusted his own pet reel to the cheap rod that belonged to Peter and he started out at pink dawn.

The stream was a good one. It had been closed for five years by the state fish commission but now it was opened, although only a few knew about it, evidently.

Mr. Mintrum saw no one else. Along the meadow stretch he let his dry flies drift in the sluggish back eddies and he was amply rewarded.

Mr. Mintrum crept well back. Finally he trailed down to watch Fisher.

Fisher was more awkward than Walder. He lost two by trying to yank them out. He managed to land two, hauling them out as one would haul out an old shoe.

Mr. Mintrum sat down on a ledge at the foot of a pool and cast up, permitting the fly to drift down and ripple over a small rock here and there. Although Fisher had threshed about this pool and had caught nothing, Mr. Mintrum landed three more.

CHEATS FRIEND

He sat there, eating a sandwich Peter's wife had prepared when Fisher came threshing back again.

"Hello old man—any luck?" he asked.

"Yup, cotched some," said Mr. Mintrum, hoping he wouldn't overdo it. He kept the ragged felt hat down over his eyes.

"Let's see?"

The 15 trout were displayed.

"Good, I'll buy them."

"Why not cotch some your own self?"

"Can't seem to do it, guess I have the wrong bait or they stopped biting. Listen, old man, how about 50 cents each for the lot. Seven and a half smackers don't grow in your barnyard every day, old man."

Mintrum sold his fish.

"Don't tell anyone. I'm bettin' a friend I can beat him," Fisher said.

The next day Mr. Mintrum, in the same rig, managed to meet Walder who said, "Hello, friend—let's see what you have?"

Mintrum showed him.

"I salute you, friend—you're out of my class," and Walder went his way.

Mr. Mintrum went home and told Polly all about it.

"I was fishing for information mostly, Polly. A man who will cheat a friend in a little sporting contest like that will cheat anyone," said Mr. Mintrum.

That was a year ago.

This spring Mr. Mintrum and his son-in-law, Thornton Walder, went fishing many times. Walder learned rapidly.

JUST PLAYING AROUND -:- By Lewis Allen Browne

him and gave him my best smile.

I thought that he hesitated and turned somewhat red, but he smiled back at me and said he would be glad to try it. Without asking him what size he wanted I selected the largest size. Then I saw something to rub on the face after shaving.

"This," I said, again flashing a smile at him, "is lovely. We are selling a great deal of it to our discriminating patrons."

That was a wow—I had read the line somewhere in some advertising. The elderly man reached out and placed his hand over mine on the bottle as he read the label. I didn't try to draw my hand away, but just smiled at him.

A STRANGE SUCCESS

"I'll take it, Miss," he said, and then he removed his hat and began to dab at his forehead with a silk handkerchief.

For the life of me—not even if I lost my brand new job—could I help from laughing.

The man clapped on his hat, counted out the right change and left as soon as his purchases were wrapped up. He didn't look my way again.

"What did he say that was so funny?" Mrs. Wayne wanted to know.

"I—I sold him a quart of hair tonic," I gasped, trying to stop laughing. She looked at me curiously, questioningly.

"He—he's as bald as a billiard ball!" I finished.

She tittered a little and nudged me. Mr. Thorton, the floor manager, was coming toward us.

"Mustn't laugh, Miss—patrons will think you are laughing at them," he said.

"I was—I'm sorry, I couldn't help it, Mr. Thornton."

"Her first sale was a quart of hair tonic to a bald-headed man," Mrs. Wayne explained.

"Ha!" said Mr. Thornton, explosively, then he became grave.

"That's what you are here for—to sell goods, miss. You mustn't laugh, though, not like that."

"Yes, sir," I answered, meekly.

Five minutes later I saw Mr. Thornton and Mr. Fallon, who has charge of our department, laughing together and looking my way. I knew that Thornton was telling about it.

"You can sell a man anything, dearie," Mrs. Wayne told me, "but the cranky women—good heavens!"

She was right, as I learned.

That night as we were leaving Molly groaned.

"My dogs—oh, lordy, my dogs," she complained.

My feet ached, too. I wasn't used to standing like that.

"And I gotta dance half th' night with a gentleman friend," Molly declared.

"Home and bed for mine," I told her.

"Aw, Kitty, be your temperature—you gotta go out and have a good time."

"I'm not worrying," was all I would say.

By the end of the week I was fairly well used to the standing and liked the place better than I expected. More than that, I was one proud girl to hand my poor invalid sister half of my week's wages to be used for house money.

NOT SO DUMB

"Just you wait, Babe," Pete boasted Sunday night, "soon as I get to be a real plumber I'll yank you out of that store—no more hard work."

"Uh huh," I said.

Poor Sister Cora, sitting back of Pete, made a funny grimace at this and after Pete had gone she came over and sat down on the divan beside me.

"Men are fools," she said. "They think that a woman who slaves keeping house in a little flat and brings up a batch of children and cooks his meals and mends is getting out of hard work!"

"Don't you worry—I'm not so dumb as you think—none of that poor man's slave stuff for me."

Cora sighed.

"At that it's better than being an old man's darling," she said.

"Meaning that in the game of life when a girl tosses a coin she can't win?"

"Oh, Kitty, Kitty, you are a darling. I don't want to disillusion you—some women are fortunate."

"Of course," I responded.

"But only once in a blue moon."

"Then I'll wait for a blue moon old dear—that's little Dick crying, shall I go?"

But Cora was off to care for her youngster before I could get up.

I learned a lot of things during the next few months at the store and one of them was that some floor-walkers are rather human. Take Mr. Austin, for example. He was mighty friendly with me, so much so that I went out with him several times to some of the big Broadway movies and once to dinner at a Chinese-American place where we danced until midnight.

KITTY ANGERED

In the store it was always "Mr. Austin" and "Miss Mason," but when we were out together it got to be "Carl" and "Kitty."

"I'm feeling flush today," he said to me one Saturday noon as I was watching the clock, "how about a show and some nice little night club?"

"Try and make me mad that way!" was my answer.

The stores closed at one on Saturdays. At eight I met him in the Astor and we went to a show. After that he took me to a little night club, my first experience in one.

Because he was jolly and insisted, I took a drink. He said it was a Bronx, but it tasted terrible. Carl Austin thought it was a great joke because I didn't like it.

The dinner was good, the show was a revelation to me. I had read about them, but couldn't believe that the girls pranced around with so little on.

Carl was drinking and drinking and seemed gayer as the night wore on.

"Like to see you in one of those costumes," he said to me.

"If I was married I wouldn't even let my husband see me dress like that," I declared.

"Clever line you have, Kit—but I know better—you'd wear a rig like that for me, now wouldn't you?"

I shook my head. I was watching the girls dance, from the little corner nook.

"Kit," he said suddenly, "you and I'll be li'l playmates from now on—honest you burn me up—you've got more 'IT' than Bow and Garbo together!"

It wasn't so much what he said as the sudden way he embraced me that made me crazy mad.

"You li'l fool!" he cried, "just for that you haven't got any more job than a fish has hair!"

Mr. Hearst Discusses the Proposed War Debt Moratorium

This article by Mr. Hearst appeared in the News-Chronicle, London, June 24.

THERE is an old saw which says, "I had some money and a friend. I lost my money and my friend."

The nations of Europe were in dire distress during the late great war.

The Allies asked financial and military aid from the United States. The Allies sent delegations to the United States speaking literally these words:

"Our backs are against the wall—come to our aid and come quickly."

The United States came to the aid of the Allies with money and men.

It loaned the Allies money they needed to prosecute the war and without that money they could not have effectually continued the war.

And in addition to the billions loaned the Allies, America spent billions on its own armies.

Those American armies decided the outcome of the war—they saved England—they saved France—they saved Italy and the minor allies from German domination.

THE Allies realized it all the time and acknowledged it at the time and at the time professed eternal gratitude and eternal remembrance.

It is easy to be grateful while receiving favors. It is difficult to be grateful or even mindful after the favors cease.

France, England and Italy speedily forgot that America had saved them and in order to make forgetting easier, proceeded speedily to deny that America had rendered any great service.

It was not so easy for America to forget. American citizens had billions upon billions to pay in yearly taxes in order that bonds issued by the American government should be redeemed.

Those bonds were issued to find money to loan the Allies, and also to find money to maintain our armies and to send men abroad to save the Allies.

THE American people are bowed under the weight of taxes which they incurred in order to send money and armies abroad to serve and save the Allies in a war which was not an American but particularly a European war.

The Allies, however, forgot to be grateful and Uncle Santa Claus became Uncle Shylock.

Then the Allies began to beg and scheme for remission of their debts to the United States.

England was most mindful of her obligation and most honorable in the discharge of it.

Italy pleaded poverty; but she is not too poor to maintain a great military establishment in preparation for the next war.

France took the simple and direct road of repudiation. She would pay what she pleased and when she pleased and if she pleased. So America would be lucky to get half of what was owed her.

NOW America will probably not get that. She may not get ANYTHING.

An agitation has been set afoot by international bankers and debtor nations which they represent to revise further the war debts.

Nobody is stupid enough to believe that war debts will be "revised" upwards.

Nobody is simple enough to imagine that the Allies want to pay MORE than has been agreed upon.

No, the Allies want to pay less. They want to take more of the burden of THEIR war off THEMSELVES and place more of the burden on the bent backs of the American people.

Let America pay for the last one.

England wants to maintain her domination of the seas.

France wants to continue to subsidize Poland and the Little Entente and be able to put eight million (8,000,000) men in the field in the next war. The figures are Lloyd George's and are accurate.

SO, THESE European nations cannot afford to pay their honest debts.

Moreover, they think America is an easy mark and they think rightly, because an American President has made a more preposterous suggestion regarding the payment—or rather non-payment of the debt—than any foreign nation has made.

The European nations have asked for further reduction of debts. Mr. Hoover has proposed the equivalent of their cancellation.

Every informed person realizes and every statesman whom I have talked with over here frankly admits that if payments of this debt to America by foreign nations are interrupted now THEY WILL NEVER BE RESUMED.

The moratorium will be first extended over a period and then made permanent, either by consent or by definite refusal to pay.

THE WHOLE DEBT SITUATION CAN NEVER BE REOPENED AND RENEGOTIATED UNDER PRESENT CIRCUMSTANCES AND CONDITIONS.

EUROPE'S sense of gratitude has become more and more feeble and her faculty for forgetting more and more robust.

Mr. Hoover's plan for debt cancellation has been received with joy over here by the nations whose debts will be cancelled; but I doubt if it will be received with any satisfaction in America, where the people need these payments to help relieve them of their financial distress.

Mr. Hoover could be elected president today of almost any country in Europe, but can he be re-elected in the country whose rights he has surrendered and whose welfare he has jeopardized?

I do not think so.

The international bankers, of course, are rigging the market in the effort to make it appear that failure to receive the money due them is going to make the American people prosperous; but the American people are not fools. They are mostly business people and they know that you prosper by GETTING what is due you, not by GIVING IT AWAY.

EVERY corner groceryman knows that he would go into bankruptcy if he cancelled all the accounts which are owed him.

None of the banks practices the debt cancellation which these international bankers and their president are advocating for the American people.

Go around to any bank and try to get your debt to the bank CANCELLED or REDUCED or REVISED downward; or anything but PAID.

No, indeed; what is good for the goose is NOT good for the gander, and America is surely the goose, all right; and a goosed goose at that, if it submits to Mr. Hoover's plan for debt cancellation by means of a moratorium.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

The following article was given by Mr. Hearst to the United Press and the News-Chronicle in London on June 25.

I AM uncompromisingly opposed to further reduction of the war debt of foreign nations to America.

America has made reductions enough, concessions enough, sacrifices enough.

These foreign nations, all except England, negotiated and repudiated themselves into the position of indigents asking alms and finally secured settlements which were in the nature of charitable benefactions from America. England, of course, came forward first to pay her debts and proudly agreed to a settlement which was so honorable and liberal as to be almost out of proportion to her financial condition and her ability to pay.

If England had stooped to the mendicant methods of some of the other nations, or had even confided her upstanding negotiations to the hands of more able negotiators, she would undoubtedly have secured at least better terms and a lower rate of interest.

IF SHE had waited until after America's exasperating experience with France, almost any settlement which England in her honesty had been willing to propose would have seemed grateful to American minds and nerves. However, the settlements have been made, England's generous one and France's grudging one. America, on the whole, has compromised on approximately half of what was due her and I, as one American citizen and voter, am not willing to have some settlements further reduced.

America has made her compromises and her sacrifices and they are entirely sufficient. I am opposed, therefore, to anything that approaches or resembles the cancellation of war debts to the United States which the European nations now desire.

I spoke my opposition to Mr. Hoover's moratorium because it seemed to be—and to be universally considered—a precedent or preliminary to permanent debt cancellation. All the statesmen and all the plain people over here who are equipped to discuss the subject at all, blandly believe that a moratorium is the first step toward the debt cancellation which they advocate, and that other steps will certainly and speedily follow.

PERHAPS they are right. Perhaps, on the other hand, they are wrong. I am assured on the highest authority of America that it is in no way the American government's purpose to make the moratorium more than a temporary relief to nations in dire distress. I am, of course, compelled to accept that statement, although I know with certainty that this is not the idea or intention of other governments and other nations. The question, therefore, is, how far will the desires and intentions of other nations prevail over the purposes of our own government. I would not be opposed to the moratorium if it will not prove to be the first stride in a movement toward a general cancellation of European war debts to the United States.

Consequently, if there are adequate assurances and convincing guarantees that the moratorium will last only for a stated period and will constitute no permanent or protracted interruption to war debt payments and no infraction of principle and policy which after so much and so difficult negotiation have finally been agreed upon, I will not oppose it. But if these assurances and guarantees are not convincingly presented to the next Congress before which the question of this moratorium and its effects upon war debt payments will come, I shall oppose the measure to the utmost of my abilities.

I DO NOT think that my influence is important, but I am quite sure that a great part of the American people and a great number of their representatives in Congress already feel as I do about this matter.

The decision is naturally not in my hands but in theirs.

Indictment of Kline

It Is to Be Hoped the Case Will Be Tried on Its Merits, and Not Be a Battle Over Technicalities.

Now that Mayor Kline has been indicted for irregularities in the awarding of contracts, it would be no more than proper for him to desist from officiating as Pittsburgh's chief magistrate until he has proved his innocence to the satisfaction of a jury.

An indictment is, of course, only an accusation, and it is for the petit jury to say whether or not the Mayor is guilty. Still, so long as he remains formally charged with crime, it would be better that he entrust the duties of his office to a deputy mayor.

It is to be presumed that the indictments have been correctly drawn and that care has been taken to have everything done in strict compliance with legal requirements.

The charge against the Mayor should be tried on its merits. It will be very disheartening if the trial should degenerate into a wrangle over legal technicalities, and we hope that both the District Attorney and Mayor Kline will do everything possible to keep the real issue from being befogged by legalistic quibbling.

Flood Protection Plans

Safeguarding of Pittsburgh Should Not Be Overlooked in State and National Programs.

The administration at Harrisburg announces that the building of the Pymatuning Dam at the headwaters of the Shenango River, about 20 miles above Sharon, will be one of its major projects. The Legislature appropriated $1,500,000 to finish the dam.

The administration at Washington points with pride to $36,400,000 devoted to flood control in the latest fiscal year.

The Pymatuning Dam is a flood control measure. The dam will hold back the water of the upper Shenango valley in a storage reservoir covering 28 square miles. It is stated that if the reservoir had been in operation during the flood of 1913, the discharge at Sharon would have been reduced one-third.

These activities of the State and Federal governments are a reminder of Pittsburgh's need of flood protection. In 1907 we suffered from an inundation which submerged 1,600 acres of the city. The water of the Allegheny River rose to a height of 35 feet and advanced inland as far as Liberty avenue and Sixth street. Engineers who studied the situation told us it would not be surprising if we should be visited some day by a 40-foot flood.

Pittsburgh needs storage reservoirs, such as the Pymatuning Dam project, on the headwaters of the Allegheny and Monongahela, to protect us from flood.

Many years ago William Hard, the writer, mentioned storage reservoirs, to protect Pittsburgh from flood, as just the kind of work that the Federal government should do in time of widespread unemployment.

The safeguarding of Pittsburgh should not be overlooked by either the Federal or State governments when programs for important public works are prepared.

BURBANK, MIRACLE MAN

By Archibald Henderson

It is an indisputable fact that the late Luther Burbank came as near to accomplishing miracles as any scientist who has ever lived. He was more of a creator than a discoverer. He produced, by scientific knowledge and the application of scientific principles, many things which had never existed before in flora, the plant and vegetable kingdoms. "All my triumphs," he once said . . . and he achieved many triumphs . . . "have been gained by carefully and patiently observing the laws of nature and by experiment." It has been succinctly said that selection combined with breeding explains the secret of his success.

Burbank made many sacrifices in order to carry out his cherished ideas. He once stated that he had put a quarter of a million dollars of his personal earnings back into the business of plant breeding. Concerning the hardships he had to go through with, he has said: I have known what it is to feel the pangs of hunger. I have slept in noisome places when I could call no roof of my own. I have done the most repugnant and disagreeable work so as to earn a pittance to keep soul and body together. I have fought off fever when I had not the money to pay for a daily pint of milk which stood between me and possible death. I have denied myself all the minor luxuries of life and most of its comforts, while for years I did not even own a microscope, so important and indispensable an instrument in my work.

The magnitude of Burbank's labors, the amazing patience which he displayed, the dexterity and technical skill of his work are almost miraculous. Many details have been interestingly set forth by Bridges and Tiltman in Masters of Modern Science. For example, in the production of one of his most famous fruits, the well-known Primus berry, which is a cross between the blackberry of California and the raspberry of Siberia, he secured 5,000 seedlings from the many crosses made, and though the fruits of some of these were marvellous in appearance, not one was found to be of any commercal value, and all the plants were grubbed up and destroyed. No fewer than 900,000 berry bushes, mostly 2 years old, were grubbed up and burned in a single season because Burbank did not consider them fit to live.

One of his great triumphs was the Burbank potato, beautiful in its whiteness and so productive that, according to careful calculation, it has added a value of no less than $17,500,000 to the yearly production of potatoes in North America. Almost 40 years ago Burbank produced the famous Burbank plum, which is now grown more widely than any other plum in North America.

Another great triumph was the production of a huge prune, four times the size of the French prune from which it was developed. California today, as the result of the production of this superb prune, enjoys an enormous trade in prunes.

At one time there were growing in the garden at Santa Rosa 300,000 distinct varieties of plums, differing one from another in foliage, in form and color of fruit, in flavor, and in all other qualities.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

It depends on the man. There was Noguchi—a Japanese peasant boy with a crippled hand.

At three he'd been left sleeping beside an open fire-pit. When his screams brought his mother racing from the rice field, the fingers of the left hand were already gone, the bones twisting like burning roots out of the charred flesh.

In time it healed, a splayed, seared stump, horrible to behold. Other things were difficult to bear . . . poverty with its rags and hunger and cold, the ignominy of a drunken father . . . but the horror of the stump eclipsed everything.

Now that he is dead, you can read about it in that strong, passionate book "NOGUCHI," by Gustav Eckstein.

"In the zinjo-shogakko, the boys point to the hand, then one whispers to the other, 'What kind of a farmer will he be with a hand like that?' And if one is about to stop them, they chase him 'Tembo, tembo . . .' that is what they shout. Tembo means handboy, and he flies ahead of them round the schoolhouse into the graveyard to hide behind a gravestone . . ."

"He hates his hand. Sometimes when he is alone with it, he looks at it, sees how it is like a knot of wood, wishes he could hide it or take a knife and cut between the stumps. But if he did and the stumps began to bleed and the bleeding did not stop, what would he do then?"

"Tembo!" . . . handboy . . . they had called him and he had fled from that cry. All his life he was to feel that call, searing his heart . . . was to flee from peering eyes. He taught himself a hundred ways to hide the hand. He steeled himself to do without intimates at school, lest they discover that horror beneath the long kimono sleeve. But he could never hide the memory of it from himself.

And that, almost any psychiatrist will tell you, is enough to ruin any life. Which has been Glad News to a lot of lazy, cowardly humans who are looking for a good excuse for dodging life. Most of them, to be sure, have no such handicap as Noguchi's blasted hand. But they have —sumpin'.

There's Bill. A total loss. But that's all because his father bullied him as a kid and broke his pride—according to Bill. And there's Amy. Amy's a great, big, grown up girl now—age 38, weight 194. Yet to hear her tell it, she's a Permanently Blighted Life. All because Mamma favored Sister Flossie more than she did Amy. So naturally, poor Amy got an inferiority Complex.

An Inferiority Complex—what a grand alibi that has proved for every variety of human cussedness. And if ever a human had a right to use that alibi, it was fearfully deformed Noguchi. BUT HE REFUSED TO LET THAT DEFORMITY MAKE HIM INFERIOR. He faced it, not as a handicap but as a CHALLENGE. He used it to establish his SUPERIORITY.

Jeers did not break him, keenly as they hurt. In his raging, tortured heart he vowed he'd show them! And he did. Against every handicap of poverty, ignorance, race prejudice and, always, the nightmare of that twisted hand, Noguchi became one of the greatest scientists the world has ever known.

A hero? No—A MAN! Bearing his burden as every man does, if he has the makings.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Those "Understandings"

There is nothing like one of those deadly, long-drawn-out, "now-you've-got-me-and-now-you-haven't" love affairs, to take all the color, starch, vivacity, style, pep and personality out of a girl.

Falling in love, like a facial treatment, completely transforms and transfigures a woman—just at first.

* * *

But, unless she repeats the process now and then, it is apt to leave her more wan and saggy and haggard-looking than ever.

* * *

Why do so many girls, these days, go in for those "understandings," in which the only understanding is that the man understands that the girl will marry him, some day, if he decides to ask her? They are soul-deadening!

* * *

* * *

A husband is a sure thing. He couldn't possibly absorb a woman, keep her on the ragged edge and spoil her beauty sleep, as a fiance or a lover does.

* * *

It's funny—but the moment a man falls in love with a woman, he immediately proceeds to transform her into a solitary island, completely surrounded by his own personality. He selects her because she is "different"—and then starts to tone her down cut out her little mannerisms and coquetries, and take a tuck in her vanity and a reef in her poise.

* * *

The most brilliant and dashing of women will gradually fade into a pathetic little colorless echo, under the shadow of some man's perpetual domination.

* * *

And when at last she has become a nonentity and the last vestige of her individuality has disappeared, he marries her—and she is "sunk."

* * *

That is why most men stay young longer than most women. A man never permits love to absorb, dominate and obliterate him—for long.

* * *

With him it is "Just a little love"—and then "another little love." He is always in love—but never deep enough in love to be utterly submerged by the waters of oblivion.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 26.—Thoughts while strolling: Few have such a curious edge to their voice as Ethel Barrymore. Ruddy gentlemen who play handball before breakfast. The Beaux Arts apartment houses with French gendarmes as doormen. What's become of John Steele, the tenor?

Lecture announcement: "Sex as a binomial theorem." John Ringling, a Baraboo, Wis., boy, who made good in the city. A bent-over lamp post and a shatter of glass. Japanese-American tailors. Summer twins with expectant looks and floppy hats. Epileptic apartment house architecture.

Those Murray Hill homes suggesting evening prayers, 6 o'clock suppers and decanters of 18th century Tokay. I used to think it cruel to keep dogs in pet shops. But after all it is the way many find excellent homes. Tourists kodaking the J. P. Morgan home.

A lavender and old lace lady reading a gilt-edged book at an open window. The fat Turk with thick lips and pot bellied like a spider who rolls gold-tipped cigarets in a window in the 30's. Hope Martha has lemon snow pudding for dinner. Chevalier smiles like Will Rogers.

Al Bedell breezing along. White vests with long points again. Nice for dribbling. Funny, why I most always look at my watch at exactly 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Maybe it's a loose gland or something. Archaic little notion stores run by pallid and shriveled old women.

Cardboard hooks and eyes, whale bones and bolts of baby ribbons. They always make me think of my aunt's millinery shop. And the blonde hat trimmer from the city with whom I fell desperately in love. But she went off with a city chap. Him—and his blond handle-bar mustache!

Every time I step into the McAlpin I get lost. And come out on the wrong street. The Marbridge Building where Ray Long and I had our first offices—with names in gilt on the door. And one day we went to Keene's with Harris Merton Lyon for lunch. The sheriff came. No jobs. Carrying the banner!

People had more courage losing jobs in other days. But maybe it was because my world was younger. When the magazine on which Long and I slaved exploded with a bang, the staff gathered in a reception room, not padlocked by the sheriff, and the mood was entirely facetious. All were married and had other responsibilities. But we went down to McGraw's billiard parlor in the building and I do not remember ever having so many hearty laughs. Perhaps we were hysterical.

During the interlude Long and I would bump into each other on Park Row hunting work. He shortly became editor of the Red Book and started upward on his meteoric career. Two years later I was still hunting a job and because I have tried to be cheerful about losing jobs during the depression cynics write: "Don't be so smart alec in so serious a situation. What do you know about hunting a job?" I did not reply although there is nothing about job hunting I do not know. There wasn't an office boy in any sort of publishing office in those days that had not snubbed me. For years I literally lived among the Help Wanted Ads. They provoke spasms of melancholy today.

My optimism over losing a job and the subsequent quest for work is because in that long travail I found my little niche. As bleak and indescribably bitter as was my lot I believe that without that experience I would have remained in a totally obscure newspaper job. Which sounds like an echo from Aesop.

The effervescent Lyda Roberti and her hilarious Polish accent enriched the Broadway story tellers weekly. The latest concerns the platinum-haired star's attendance at a penthouse party. It was her first merrymaking in New York. So she stayed up until dawn, indulging several glasses of wine. During a scene with Lou Holz that evening she moaned: "I'm hangink over"—her dialect for hang-over.

From T. G. H.: "I'm hiding out a jug of jaguar juice for your visit to the Ozarks. Two snorts and you tweak tails of wild boars. If you don't like our jaguar juice we have an earthquake cider that will shake you up. Name your poison!"
